OUR WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 9.

FORT SUMPTER TO BE SUPPLIED.

I have information to-night, entirely satisfying me that the steamer Baltic has gone to Fort Sumpter, where she will land supplies in small boats.

You are already aware that she is laden with a large quantity of stores, and is supplied with numerous launches, yawls, &c. The soldiers on board are designed to repel attacking parties coming from the rebel forts; for which purpose the Baltic is supplied with boat-howitzers. A number of naval officers have recently expressed their entire confidence in this method of reinforcing and supplying Fort Sumpter.

Mr. R. S. CHEW, a Consular Clerk of the State Department, has gone to Charleston, to notify the authorities of the purpose of the Government to send in these supplies. It is understood that the Government only proposes to send in provisions; but if the landing of these is resisted, the men who fight their way through, and reach the fort, will remain there.

We may therefore expect exciting news from Charleston, accordingly, within thirty-six hours, if the telegraph is allowed to operate from southward.

A dispatch was received here this morning from Charleston, stating that Lieut. TALBOT would not be allowed to return to Fort Sumpter with the President's communications, as the orders are understood to be unfavorable to the interests of the Confederacy. It is probable, however, that Gov. PICKENS will not permit such a gross violation even of warlike courtesy.

PROGRAMME OF NAVAL OPERATIONS.

Lieut. A. S. BALDWIN is ordered to leave Philadelphia to-morrow, via steamer Water Witch, for Pensacola, to take command of the steamer Wyandotte, vice BERRYMAN, deceased. The impression prevails here among military men, that the steamer Atlantic, with DUNCAN'S battery and other troops, have gone to Pensacola to support the movement for the reinforcement of Fort Pickens.

It is supposed that Capt. MEIGS and his artisans are to assist in the operations on the neighboring shore to Fort Pickens, if it shall be necessary to operate there against BRAGGS' forces, in order to cover the landing of the required reinforcements for the fort.

If a regular siege should be required for this purpose, of course there would be work for carpenters in erecting necessary shelter for the troops and their animals.

It is supposed that the Baltic, after finishing her work at Charleston, will proceed Southward with her supplies of oats and hay for distribution.

AN UNMANLY WARFARE.

A day or two since, when one of the mail-bags coming from the South by way of Alexandria, was emptied in the court-yard of the Post-office, a box fell out and was broken open,—from which two copperheads, one four and a half and the other three feet long, crawled out. The larger one was benumbed and easily killed; the other was very lively and venomous, and was dispatched with some difficulty and danger. What are we to think of a people who resort to such weapons of warfare.

NEW TREASURY NOTES TO BE PROMPTLY ISSUED.

There is no truth in the Bearish rumor that the new Treasury notes will not be ready for issue under thirty days. I am authorized to announce that they will all be ready for delivery within ten days after the bids are opened—before, in fact, the time has expired within which money is required to be paid.

THE CALIFORNIA APPOINTMENTS.

The appointment of Dr. WM. RABE to the United States Marshalship for the Northern District of California, created quite a sensation to-day among the Californians. Dr. RABE was one of those who most earnestly protested against Senator BAKER'S interference in the distribution of the California patronage. His consequent defeat for Postmaster of San Francisco has resulted in his elevation to a much better position. He is one of the hardest-working and most deserving Republicans on the Pacific Coast. Col. BAKER takes his appointment in high dudgeon, and left town this afternoon in disgust. All the California appointments of any consequence have been made now, except those of Surveyor of the Port of San Francisco, Naval Officer, Navy Agency and Surveyor-General.

SAMUEL J. BRIDGE was to-day reappointed Appraiser-General of Customs at San Francisco, from which place he was removed by the last Administration. This appointment was unsolicited, and was made solely with reference to the eminent fitness of the appointee.

OTHER APPOINTMENTS.

Col. MARSHALL, of Washington Territory, will be appointed Governor of the same.

It is considered doubtful whether A. B. DICKINSON will accept the mission to Nicaragua.

CHAS. D. B. SIMONTON, of California, has been appointed Special Inspector of Customs at Panama, New-Granada.

LEVI SMITH is appointed Postmater at Watertown, N. Y.

ALEXANDER DUVAL, Collector at Richmond, Va.

None of the Boston appointments were settled upon to-day.

BEN. McCULLOUGH had become so obnoxious in this neighborhood that he found it prudent to announce his departure for Texas to-day. Whether this is a ruse or not, to cover further treasonable designs, remains to be proven.

The Postmaster-General finds he will be enabled to open bids for mail carrying in New-York and New-England on the 18th instead of the 24th, as was at first announced by the Department.

DISPATCH TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, April 9.

Extensive as the military and naval preparations are, it is persistently stated in Administration quarters that they mean defensive purposes only, and that nothing is intended not strictly justified by the laws, which it is the duty of the President to enforce to the extent of his ability. If resistance be made to his efforts in this particular, and bloodshed be the result, the responsibility must fall on those who provoke hostilities; and the assurance of the inaugural is repeated, that the Administration will not be the aggressor.

Various rumors or reasons are given in the newspapers for the present military demonstrations, among them, that they were only recently stimulated by the result of certain State and municipal elections, but this is known to be an error. For at the very commencement of the Administration, the President and Cabinet entertained the idea of reinforcing both Forts Sumpter and Pickens, but owing to the condition of the country at the time, and a non-acquaintance with the means at the command of the Government, the prosecution of the plans now progressing was impracticable. In other words, it was necessary first to ascertain the extent of the effects bequeathed to the present by the late Administration.

As to the secrecy of the objects of the military movement, this was deemed absolutely necessary, especially the sailing of vessels with sealed orders. Under the late Administration there were persons who clandestinely communicated its purposes from time to time to the Secessionists—and, as frequently occurred, before they were reduced to official form—and according to a remark of an Ex-Secretary, the Administration thus always found itself embarrassed at the threshold.

The present Administration, however, with a full appreciation of such obstructions, has limited an actual knowledge of its purposes to the members of the Cabinet, and perhaps several trusty officers, and taken such precautionary measures as renders it next to impossible to improperly acquire the forbidden information.

The Administration, while constantly declaring its policy to be peace, claims that it can only be held to strict accountability by the people, and that however variant and speculative may be the publications respecting its movements, it is under no obligations to announce its purposes and plans. In other words, that the Administration should be judged by its acts.

That Fort Pickens has or will be reinforced admits of no doubt; and with regard to Fort Sumpter, the Administration will do all in its power either to relieve Major ANDERSON, or to secure his evacuation of the post, if needs be, without dishonor or committing the Government to the acknowledgment of any right claimed by the Confederate States, or in any way recognizing the doctrine of secession.

The proceedings in the Gulf beyond the relief of Fort Pickens will be governed by circumstances.

The above has been prepared from reliable sources with a view to show, to some extent, the basis of the present military preparations.

In addition to the other California appointments, are the following:

Geo. D. Webster, Register of the Land Office, and G. C. Havens, Receiver, at Stockton.

John W. Eddy, Register, and W. H. Pratt, Receiver, at Humboldt.

George B. Tingley, Register, and Royal G. Walter, Receiver, at San Francisco.

Geo. M. Hanson, Superintendening Agent for the Indians of the Northern, and Minor Fink, Superintending Agent for the Indians of the Southern District of California.

Dr. Wm. Rabe, Marshal for the Northern District.

—— Dominick, Attorney, and Henry D. Barrows, Marshal for the Southern District.

George Rowland, Postmaster at Sacramento.

The following appointments of Postmasters were made to-day: Alexander H. Conner, Indianapolis, Ind.; William Bridgeman, Springfield, Mass; Levi Smith, Watertown, N. Y.; John S. Vedder, Schenectady, N. Y.; John F. Jarkins, New-Brunswick, N. J.; Charles B. Griffin, Newark, N. J.; Joshua Jones, Trenton, N. J; Samuel Riddle, Alleghany, Penn.; Charles H. Eldridge, Davenport, Iowa.

Senator SUMNER being detained here on business, has been obliged to abandon his proposed lecture at Brooklyn on Friday next.

Many appointments have been published as being made, when the cases of the individuals named have not even received the consideration of the President. The only one for the District of Columbia thus far is that of Col. LAMON as Marshal.

There is no truth in the report that thirty days will elapse before the new Treasury notes will be ready for delivery. On inquiry at the proper quarters, it was ascertained that the plates are nearly ready, and the notes will be issued within the time allowed depositors to place the coin, say in eight or ten days of the opening of the bids.

A letter received here from Richmond, says that Major BEN. McCULLOUGH left there last Wednesday for New-Orleans.

THE PENNSYLVANIA LEGISLATURE.

MESSAGE OF GOV. CURTIN RELATIVE TO MILITARY AFFAIRS.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., Tuesday, April 9.

Gov. CURTIN has sent a message into the Legislature in relation to our national difficulties. He recommends the organization of militia and other measures proper at the present crisis. He also states that he has received a letter from President LINCOLN, stating that he (LINCOLN) has information of a design to attack the City of Washington.

Ex-Treasurer SLIFER says that no State loan will be required to supply the half million for war purposes.

HARRISBURGH, Penn., Tuesday, April 9—P. M.

Gov. CURTIN'S Message calls attention to the military organization of the State, and recommends the Legislature to make immediate provision for the removal of the defects now existing by establishing a military bureau at the Capital, by modifying the militia laws, and by making a proper distribution of arms, &c. He calls attention to the serious jealousies and divisions distracting the public mind, and the military organizations of a formidable character, seemingly not demanded by an existing public exigency, in certain States. He adds, "Pennsylvania offers no counsel and takes no action in the nature of a menace. Her desire is peace and to effect the preservation of the personal and political rights of citizens, the true sovereignty of the States, and the supremacy of law and order. Animated by these sentiments and indulging an earnest hope of a speedy restoration of harmonious and friendly relations, I commit the grave subject of this communication to your deliberation."

The Message was referred to a Joint Select Committee to report by bill.

HARRISBURGH, Tuesday, April 9—P. M.

At the Republican caucus of both Houses to-night, Senator SMITH presiding, urged that the party should at present take no other grounds than those already taken.

Mr. McCLURE urged the adoption of the constitutional amendment proposed to Congress.

Mr. GORDON, Representative of the House, opposed its adoption.

Mr. LANDON, of the Senate, declared that he would not vote for it.

Mr. McCLURE rejoined warmly.

Mr. GORDON again spoke in opposition to the amendment, and Mr. ARMSTRONG speaking in favor of it.

The caucus is still in session. No vote will be taken to-night.

The Democratic members will hold a caucus on the military appropriation bill to-morrow morning.

LETTER FROM A CHARLESTON MERCHANT.

The following letter has been received by a gentleman in Albany:

CHARLESTON, April 5, 1861.

We are in the midst of great excitement here. Fort Sumpter must be given up within three days or it will be cannonaded. All the preparations are made, and the attack will be successful. One thing is certain—the North never can conquer the South.

As you may suppose, business is exceeding dull, and debts cannot be collected. Every one wishes to await the upshot of affairs, as we are under the impression that war must ensue.

IMPORTANT FROM CHARLESTON.

GREAT PREPARATIONS FOR AN ATTACK.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 9.

The State authorities last night received official notification that supplies would be furnished to ANDERSON at any hazard—peaceably if possible, by force if necessary.

Immense preparations immediately were commenced suitable to the emergency.

Orders were issued to the entire military force of the city, held in reserve, to proceed to their stations without delay.

Four regiments of a thousand men each have been telegraphed for from the country. One of these from Kershaw District, under command of Col. RION, was formed with the understanding not to be called out until the fight was positively at hand.

Dr. GIBBS, Surgeon-General, was ordered to prepare ambulances, and make every provision for the wounded, and in all departments was observable the admirable system and discipline with which the State is prepared for this exigency.

MIDNIGHT.—The community has been thrown into a fever of excitement by the discharge of seven guns from Citadel-square, the signal for the assembling of all the reserves ten minutes afterwards.

Hundreds of men left their beds, hurrying to and fro towards their respective destinations. In the absence of sufficient armories at the corners of the streets, public squares and other convenient points, meetings were formed, and all night the long roll of the drum and the steady tramp of the military and the gallop of the cavalry resounding through the city betokened the close proximity of the long anticipated hostilities.

The Home Guard corps of old gentlemen, who occupy the position of military exempts, rode through the city, arousing the soldiers, and doing other duty required by the moment. Hundreds of the citizens were up all night.

A terrible thunder storm prevailed until a late hour.

The Seventeenth Regiment, 800 strong, gathered thus in one hour, and left for the fortifications at 3 o'clock this morning.

The vessels in the harbor necessary for transportation will be called into service by 12 o'clock to-day.

Three thousand men, in addition to those in the harbor, will be under arms.

A fleet of seven United States vessels have been reported off the bar. Major ANDERSON displayed signal lights during the night from the walls of Fort Sumpter.

Hundreds are here from the interior watching the progress of events.

A brush at Pensacola is daily looked for.

It is believed by many here that the fight will commence at Stono, about 25 miles southward—the batteries along the coast being attacked and silenced in turn; and that, having cleared Morris Island, on which is the last of these forts, the United States troops will cross to Fort Sumpter while the latter is engaging Fort Moultrie.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 9.

Lieut. TALBOT and R. S. CHEW arrived here last night, bringing dispatches from Washington, stating that Fort Sumpter would be supplied with provisions at any cost. The former was denied admission to Fort Sumpter. Both left at 11 o'clock last night. There were no improper demonstrations.

THE LATEST DISPATCHES.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 9.

Lieut. TALBOT and Mr. CHEW returned at 11 P. M.

Permission was refused to visit Sumpter, and also to allow a provision-ship to enter the port.

The city is under arms. The surgeons are called for. Martial law is expected to be proclaimed.

Lieut TALBOT was detained at Florence, and lost twelve hours.

The eighteen thousand men just called for by JEFF. DAVIS are intended for operation against the North.

The Commissioners at Washington have telegraphed to Gov. PICKENS that war is inevitable.

JASPER.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 9.

The affairs in this city are culminating.

About 800 men left the city this morning for different points in the harbor.

It is estimated that near 5,000 men are stationed at Sullivan's and Morris Islands and along the coast.

Companies are arriving from the interior, and the different posts will be further strengthened to-morrow by near one thousand additional soldiers.

The greatest enthusiasm prevails among all classes.

CHARLESTON, Tuesday, April 9—Evening.

Everything is quiet on the surface, but there is a deep feeling. Prodigious preparations are progressing.

Senator WIGFALL is serving as a common soldier.

Rifled cannon are rapidly arriving.

Secretary JAMISON delivered a farewell speech today, and complimentary resolutions were adopted. The adjournment of the Convention is expected to-morrow.

No war vessels are outside so far as known.

IMPORTANT FROM MONTGOMERY.

MONTGOMERY, Tuesday, April 9.

JEFF. DAVIS made a requisition to-day on the Governor of Alabama for 3,000 troops.

The Mississippi Brigade, 1,800 strong, arrived at Pensacola on the 7th inst.

Three hundred and seventy Georgia troops for Pensacola have passed through here within the last 48 hours.

THE WARLIKE NEWS SOUTH.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Tuesday, April 9.

The Charleston news produced intense excitement here to-day.

AUGUSTA, Tuesday, April 9.

A report is in circulation that United States war vessels are off Charleston, but it is regarded as bogus.

NEW-ORLEANS, Tuesday, April 9.

The news received here from Charleston is the all-absorbing topic of conversation, and creates universal excitement.

MILITARY AND NAVAL AFFAIRS.

DEPARTURE OF THE STEAM-TUG YANKEE AS A TENDER—DOINGS AT THE NAVY-YARD.

Comparative quiet prevailed, yesterday, in the City respecting military and naval movements, the sailing of the steamers Baltic and Illinois on Monday night having, for the time, left the public to occupy itself with other matters.

The destination of the ships,—whether for Texas, for Pensacola, or for the relief of Major ANDERSON, or for all three of these purposes,—continues to be the theme of conjecture.

The steam-tug Yankee was also quietly chartered by the Government, and slipped out of the harbor on Monday evening, at 5 o'clock, in company with the Baltic. She is a new and powerful tug, similar in her construction to the Wm. H. Webb, only she has but a single engine, built at the Fulton Works, and draws about eight feet of water. She is about 400 tons register, 150 feet long, 26 breadth of beam, and 12 feet hold. She is owned by Capt. RUSSELL STURGIS, and is commanded by Capt. GERMAIN. She took a large supply of coal, and a considerable quantity of provisions. As in the case with the other vessels, her particular destination remains a secret. As she is too small a vessel to perform a lengthy voyage, it is surmised that she is to act as a tender to the larger vessels, as emergencies may arise.

The Ocean Queen had not been chartered yesterday, as expected, and, for the present, there is probably an end of the shipment of troops from this port.

The coast survey steamer Vixen has been detailed for revenue service in place of the Harriet Lane, transferred to the Navy department. She came down from the Navy-yard yesterday, and anchored off the Battery.

Commodore PAULDING, the newly appointed Adviser-in-chief of the Navy Department, and Commodore STRINGHAM, his predecessor in the same exalted position, somewhat mysteriously appeared at the Brooklyn Navy-yard yesterday. They presented themselves for their usual pay to Mr. DUNLAP; but rumor says that their so doing was only "a blind." Commodore BREESE, too, who has been in Washington sitting on the Armstrong Court Martial, was expected to return to his quarters last evening. The officers of the Station all assembled at the Lyceum to receive their pay. With the exception of these movements, everything was quiet at the Navy-yard.

Governor's Island was also dull. The quarters were in a very confused state, and were being put to rights. Fort Hamilton would pass to-day for the original of Goldsmith's Deserted Village. The old Sergeant and a few straggling soldiers that remained over their time in the City, compose its only garrison. Fort Lafayette is completely empty. Bedloe's Island is barren of excitement. The troops in the harbor are now diminished to the extent indicated in the following table:

	Men.
Governor's Island	300
Bedloe's Island	60
Marines at the Navy-yard, and on board the North	122
Total	482

Over 50 pieces of heavy ordnance are on a barge off Fort Columbus. Their destination is unknown.

IMPORTANT FROM VIRGINIA.

Progress of Events--Sentiment of the People--Prospects of Secession.

Important Debates in the Convention--Independence of Western Virginia Declared.

From Our Special Correspondent.

RICHMOND, Va., Monday, April 8, 1861.

The play of Secession in Virginia is rapidly approaching its fifth and last act. And notwithstanding it dragged heavily in its earlier parts, and not even such star actors as PRYOR on the hustings, or DANIELS among the editors, could give it vivacity and hopefulness, it is evident that a brilliant and perfectly successful conclusion is now expected. The Secessionists throughout Virginia are this (Monday) morning in high spirits, and confident to find the Old Dominion within thirty days torn from her moorings in the Union. This is a sudden revolution; but it is easy to see the ground of their hope. I will explain it after a while, having first given to the TIMES a review of the position of Virginia, and the importance that should be attached to it.

In the first place, Virginia is unquestionably the pivot on which the fate of the Union will turn. Whether this proposition, or assumption, be liked or not, is of no consequence. It is a truth, and in less than thirty days the fact will be verified to the world. The moral power of Virginia has, until within quite a recent period, been unequaled in the control of the Federal Union. This power, lost there, positively exists still in the Slave States, especially in the great States of Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee, which States, with Virginia, contain the chief available military power of the South. With all three of those States I have relations of intimacy growing out of recent and prolonged residence, that enable me to speak without the possibility of mistake. If Virginia now abandons her allegiance to the Union, I say that in not five counties either of Kentucky, Tennessee or Missouri can a majority of votes be polled for sustaining the old Union in its effort to maintain existence. Therefore, Virginia must be saved to the Union, or the Union itself is lost.

This being the case, it is a wonder that no paper but the TIMES has taken care to watch the critical movements now making here.

The Legislature of Virginia has adjourned and gone home. A happy riddance! It was a pestilent disunion body—elected two years ago—not representing the conservative sentiment of the State at all, but loving secession for its own sake and wickedly agitating for its accomplishment. The State Convention survived the Legislature, and it remains here in session. To-day it will take possession of the State House, just vacated by the Legislature, and hold its future meetings there.

The Convention is a worthy representation of the talent, good breeding and conservative spirit of the Old Dominion. It was denounced in the late fanatical Legislature; bitterly assailed and villified by the Secession Press of Richmond; some of its members insulted by the mob of Secessionists that hang around its lobby and try to overawe its counsels. Yet the Convention has preserved wonderful equanimity and dignity. Petitions were got up in many counties and numerously signed. Public meetings were held, and every effort made by the unflagging Secession Party to instruct the members of the Convention to pass a Secession Ordinance. At one time, the revolutionists boasted of being able to break down the Unionists and control the Convention. A test vote was made last Friday, the 4th, on the passage of the following secession resolution:

> Resolved, That an ordinance resuming the powers delegated by Virginia, and providing for submitting the same to the qualified voters of the Commonwealth for their adoption or rejection at the polls in the Spring elections in May next, should be adopted by this Convention.

It was defeated—ayes, 45; nays, 90. And the Union men of the State were jubilant.

This vote on secession was an episode in the action of the Convention. The Convention, after a long and full discussion of the great questions now agitating the Union and threatening its overthrow, had closed the debate, and gone to voting on the resolutions of the Committee on Federal Affairs. These resolutions were to present the platform of Virginia, and they looked to the preservation of all that remains of the Union—letting the seven seceded States go. But this abandonment of them every Union man felt assured would be their worst fate. Their return to the old Union, sooner or later, was known to be a political necessity. Virginia felt sure of the coöperation of the North in this peace policy, which, while acquiescing in secession, made its speedy downfall only the more sure.

The course of Virginia in the premises has been complained of. Her proposed terms of adjustment with the Free States, looking to a restoration of the Union, have been declared hard and not possible to be accepted. At all events, they emanated from as faithful and loyal body of men as ever assembled in Virginia, or in any other State; and they have sustained a degree of malicious persecution from those that have sought the Union's overthrow, that quite vindicates their earnestness, and entitles them to the world's respect.

On Friday last the Convention had advanced as far as the ninth resolution of their series, having acted finally on six, in which they were closing up their account with and against secession. I can give you the exact text of the first six resolutions adopted. These resolutions make my letter rather long, but as the crisis is at hand, and Virginia casts the die, let us consider fully her every movement and ponder her every proposition. Omitting the preamble, the resolutions are these:

> Be it Resolved and Declared by the People of the State of Virginia, in Convention assembled:
> 1. That the States which composed the United States of America, when the Federal Constitution was formed, were independent sovereignties: and in adopting that instrument the people of each State agreed to associate with the people of the other States upon a footing of exact equality. It is the duty, therefore, of the common Government to respect the rights of the States and the equality of the people thereof, and within the just limits of the Constitution to protect with equal care the great interests that spring from the institutions of each.
> 2. African Slavery is a vital part of the social system of the States wherein it exists, and as that form of servitude existed when the Union was formed, and the jurisdiction of the several States over it within their respective limits was recognized by the Constitution, any interference to its prejudice by the Federal authority, or by the authorities of the other States, or by the people thereof, is in derogation from plain right, contrary to the Constitution, offensive and dangerous.
> 3. The choice of functionaries of a Common Government, established for the common good, for the reason that they entertain opinions and avow purposes hostile to the institutions of some of the States, necessarily excludes the people of one section from participation in the administration of the Government, subjects the weaker to the domination of the stronger section, leads to abuse, and is incompatible with the safety of those whose interests are imperiled. The formation, therefore, of geographical or sectional parties in respect to Federal politics is contrary to the principles on which our system rests, and tends to its overthrow.
> 4. The Territories of the United States constitute a trust, to be administered by the General Government for the common benefit of the people of the several States, and any policy in respect to such Territories calculated to confer greater benefits on the people of one or more of the States than on the people of others, is contrary to equality and prejudical to the rights of some for whose equal benefit the trust was created. If the equal admission of slave labor and free labor into any Territory excites unfriendly conflict between the systems, a fair partition of the Territories ought to be made between them, and each system ought to be protected within the limits assigned to it by the laws necessary for its proper development.
> 5. The sites of the Federal forts, arsenals, &c., within the limits of the States of this Union, were acquired by the Federal Government, and jurisdiction over them ceded by the States as trusts for the common purposes of the Union during its continuance; and upon the separation of the States such jurisdiction reverts of right to the States respectively by which the jurisdiction was ceded. Whilst a State remains in the Union the legitimate use of such forts, &c., is to protect the country against foreign force and to aid in suppressing domestic insurrection. To use, or prepare them to be used, to intimidate a State—or constrain its free action, is a perversion of the purposes for which they were obtained. They were not intended to be used against the States in whose limits they are found in the event of civil war. In a time of profound peace with foreign nations, and when no symptoms of domestic insurrection appear, but whilst irritating questions of the deepest importance are pending between the States, to accumulate within the limits of a State interested in such questions an unusual amount of troops and munitions of war, not required for any legitimate purpose, is unwise, impolitic and offensive.
> 6. Deeply deploring the present distracted condition of the country, and lamenting the wrongs that have impelled some of the States to dissolve their connection with the Federal Government, but sensible of the blessings of union, and impressed with its importance to the peace, prosperity and progress of the people, we earnestly desire that an adjustment may be reached by which the Union may be preserved in its integrity, and peace, prosperity and fraternal feelings be restored throughout the land.

So far, on Friday, had the Convention progressed in finishing their work, when on Saturday morning, the 5th, they were startled by the rumor of sudden and warlike movements at Washington. Every letter and every dispatch breathed alarm; and every messenger from Northward spread panic among the people. You of the North have no adequate idea how terribly deep and absorbing is the question of Civil War in the South. You should not wonder therefore that the Virginia Convention felt compelled to take up the subject for immediate consideration. WM. BALLARD PRESTON, one of the most conservative men of the State, proposed resolutions protesting against measures calculated to produce collision, and proposing to send three Commissioners to Washington to ask respectfully, of the President, an explanation of the alarming movements. Amendments were offered, and debate ensued; but it was thought that Mr. PRESTON'S proposition would succeed almost unanimously. Just then, however, the Convention was astonished to hear JACKSON, of Wood County, one of the most distinguished representatives of Western Virginia, get up and declare that if it was the purpose of the Convention to take Virginia out of the Union on the pretext of coercion applied to seceding States, he was ready to raise the banner of revolt and secede with his people, or as many as would join him, from the State of Virginia! Had a paixhan shell exploded in the Convention it could hardly have created more consternation. The commotion was quieted by adjournment, for this rare Convention—I say it to its honor—never allows action to be taken under impulse and excitement. The whole city, however, has been in a ferment since JACKSON'S speech. It opens a new and threatening phase of secession. The lobbies of the hotels are filled with anxious and excited citizens, who debate the crisis with more intensity of feeling than ever.

JACKSON is supposed to be in a meagre minority in the Convention. And many doubt whether he represents correctly any considerable portion of Western Virginia. But yet, all feel that with only a few determined, unconditional Unionists, Virginia might be placed in a sad attitude—that of crushing as rebels some of her own children, in the thankless and hated act of sustaining South Carolina in her most selfish and reckless rebellion!

It can hardly fail that this new development of Virginia sentiment and determination, added to the threatening news from Washington, will greatly complicate the political excitements prevailing at Richmond. The Secessionists are in ecstacies of new-found hope. The great body of Unionists here condemn JACKSON'S demonstration. The Secessionists foresee a division of the Union Party and its loss of control. One blow struck in the South, no matter on what side, will give them Virginia, and then all the Slave States.

Such is their belief, and they are in ecstacies, as I have said. The Union men are deeply concerned and almost despairing of the Republic.

Debate in Convention on the Proposed Commission.

RICHMOND, Va., Monday Afternoon, April 8, 1861.

The Convention assembled this morning promptly at 10 o'clock, in the Hall of Representatives of the State House. It has very limited accommodations for the public—only two small galleries on the north and south sides, of which one was reserved for ladies. The gentlemen's gallery was packed long before the Convention met, and hundreds were coming, and after standing awhile in the rotunda, and failing to gain admission to galleries or main Hall, were departing, quite vexed at the removal of the Convention from the Mechanics' Hall, where there was abundant room for spectators. The day was inclement, however, and only one lady ventured out and took her seat in the ladies' gallery. This monopoly was after awhile considered unfair, and the ladies' gallery was opened and instantly filled by a crowd. The pressure still continued great for admission, and on motion of Gov. WISE, the Sergeant-at-Arms was instructed to admit to the rear benches and lobbies on the main floor such orderly persons as could obtain comfortable sitting or standing room. This management quite filled the Hall, but the utmost decorum was observed throughout the session by those who were the recipients of this courtesy.

When the Convention adjourned on Saturday afternoon, the following preamble and resolution were under consideration:

> Whereas, In the opinion of this Convention, the uncertainty which prevails in the public mind as to the policy which the General Government intends to pursue towards the seceded States is extremely injurious to the industrial and commercial interests of the country, tends to keep up an excitement which is unfavorable to the adjustment of pending difficulties and threatens a disturbance of the public peace; therefore,
> Resolved, That a Committee of three Delegates be appointed by this Convention to wait upon the President of the United States, present to him these resolutions and respectfully ask of him to communicate to this Convention the policy which the Federal authorities intend to pursue in regard to the Confederate States.

It was on this proposition that Mr. JACKSON, of Wood, made his speech, in which he declared his purpose never to secede (even with his State) from the Union. And it was the prospect of a division of the Union Party growing out of this question, and the confident expectation of hostile measures to be inaugurated by Mr. LINCOLN, against the South, that led the Secessionists to be so jubilant, on Saturday and Sunday. And this interest pervaded the city, and brought such numbers to the Capitol to-day.

After the journal of Saturday's proceedings was read, it was moved to dispense with the rule requiring the Convention to go into Committee of the Whole at 10½ o'clock, on the report of the Committee on Federal Relations. The object was to have a vote on the foregoing preamble and resolution. The motion was opposed by a number of Union men, but prevailed by a vote of 67 to 64. Then came the debate on the merits of the movement, and I will briefly sketch it and the prominent participants in it, as the avowals made indicate the ultimate position of Virginia.

Hon. A. H. H. STUART led off by presenting a resolution that he would like, at the proper time, to offer as a substitute to that under consideration. His resolution contemplated merely the official communication to President LINCOLN, by the President of this Convention, of the earnest wish of the body to have a pacific policy towards the seceded States declared by President LINCOLN. Mr. STUART denied the right of the Convention to interrogate Mr. LINCOLN. If the right existed, he doubted the expediency of pressing it. There are twenty-six other States in the Union. If Virginia possesses this right to demand its policy, all the others do; and if all should attempt to exercise it, there would be endless confusion and embarrassment in the Administration of the Federal Government. Mr. STUART claimed that a President must have a wise control over his own councils, and referred to Ex-President TYLER, (who sat just in front of him,) and asked whether, if a Northern State had asked him, during the pendency of the negotiations for the annexation of Texas, for an avowal of his policy, President TYLER would have given an answer?

Ex-President TYLER responded. It was true he would not have divulged, on such a demand, his policy in regard to the annexation of Texas. He had more than once, while he was President, felt constrained to decline giving information on important public matters, in answer to calls by Congress. And Congress itself, knowing the delicacy of the relation between the Legislature and the Executive, always accompanied a call for information by the qualification, "provided it is not incompatible with the public interests." But Mr. TYLER thought the present case wholly unlike that of the annexation of Texas. In all matters affecting the relation of the Federal Government to foreign Powers, Mr. T. thought the President might well be allowed to maintain secrecy; but in domestic questions he thought it was different. Virginia is a constituent of Mr. LINCOLN; whether she voted for him or not, it made no difference. He was in the same relation to Virginia that a member of this Convention is to the people of the County that elected him. No doubt any member of this Convention would feel bound to give his constituents every information they might call for, unless the pressing exigency of public affairs should drive them into secret session. Mr. TYLER saw no objection to addressing inquiries to the President. He did not doubt that Mr. LINCOLN would give a respectful reply. No man could do less. It could not be possible that Mr. LINCOLN intends any warlike demonstrations against the South, because there is the absence of that necessary forerunner of danger—a proclamation. It would be the extreme of inhumanity and cruelty, argued Mr. TYLER, to strike without warning. In the case of the Whisky Insurrection, with which WASHINGTON had to deal, that godlike man issued a proclamation warning the insurgents of their danger, and urging them to return to fidelity. The offenders, in this case, were not the people of a State exercising sovereign powers, but merely "Whisky boys." Yet the President warned them to cease their rebellion or prepare for the worst. And Gen. JACKSON, when treating with the insurrectionary movement in South Carolina in 1832, issued his proclamation, urging the people to return to their allegiance, and uttering warnings of the consequences of continued rebellion.

Will not Mr. LINCOLN be equally honorable and frank? Will he carry out a "sneaking" policy, dodge from pillow to post, deceive the public with equivocal words, and fall upon the Southern States without warning? Mr. TYLER thought, if the President meant to attack the forts he would say so. If not he would say so. He did not believe that coercion was intended, and he therefore expected a calming and soothing answer. And this, he believed, the disturbed country was entitled to have.

Hon. ROBERT E. SCOTT continued the debate. He was not only in favor of the preamble and resolution as offered, but would be willing to make the inquiries of President LINCOLN more full and specific than they are. If the President means to attack the seceded States, or to reinforce the invested Forts, he for one was prepared to vote at once for an ordinance of secession. [Applause on the floor—Mr. SCOTT has been a Union man always.] There was, in Mr. SCOTT'S mind, no evidence of hostile purposes towards the South on the part of Mr. LINCOLN'S administration. He believed the policy of the President to be peace. He should not change that opinion except on evidence so direct and positive that there could not be the shadow of doubt remaining. Mr. SCOTT could not see how the President should regard their action disrespectful, if they proposed the questions to him. He thought the resolution respectful, and he would press the President to answer, telling him in no spirit of threat or menace, of the grave results depending on his reply.

Mr. RANDOLPH had another view to present in favor of the Commission to Washington, besides the one affecting the commercial and industrial interests of the country. It was known that there were large numbers of Virginians yet in the Army and Navy of the United States. They were in great distress. They could not fight against the South; and they had dependent families and could not resign without bankrupting themselves. Mr. RANDOLPH had received many letters from such—his old comrades, for he had for a while been engaged in the United States service—expressing great anxiety to know whether civil war was to ensue. If so, they did not wish to be engaged in it. Mr. RANDOLPH thought the Convention should ask Mr. LINCOLN whether the armaments now fitting out were for St. Domingo or the seceded States. If the latter, Virginia should say to the President he must send no Virginians in that service. Mr. RANDOLPH complimented the military spirit of Virginians by mentioning a circumstance that occurred when on a former occasion he visited Old Point Comfort with Ex-President TYLER. An officer there stated to him that during the Mexican War it was required to draft twenty-four men from a regiment to form part of a forlorn hope. The regiment was commanded by Northern men. Twenty-four men were called on to volunteer. They did so. On inquiring into their nationalities, it was found that eighteen of them were born in Virginia. The army is full of Virginians, said Mr. RANDOLPH, and we cannot let them be led blindfold and without their consent into a war with their Southern brethren.

Ex Gov. H. A. WISE was the next speaker. He had not intended to participate in the debate on this question, but as it was turning out to be eminently a calm and dispassionate one, he would take part so far as to say that he favored the proposition. He was written to from every quarter where he had an acquaintance, and by many strangers also, to learn what was to be expected. Is danger on the right or on the left? Other members doubtless have a similar experience. None knew what answer to give. The sword of war hangs by a single thread above them. Will it fall or not? Suspense is painful; yet the President knows the decision, and withholds it. Besides the question of civil war, there were great local interests involved in the silence of the President. The questions proposed to the President should be broad enough to embrace all. If the President should say he did not mean aggression or coercion, the question would arise, what does the President understand aggression or coercion to be. He might abandon Fort Sumpter and hold Pickens and the Tortugas, and claim that the former was intra-mural, but the latter co-national forts. The former indifferent, except to the city of Charleston; but the latter indispensable to protect the commerce of the United States on the Gulf of Mexico and on the Mississippi river. Would Virginia sanction this distinction? If so, she admitted a principle against herself, in case she should secede. For Fort Monroe was of the same character with Pickens and the Tortugas. Fort Monroe was at the mouth of the Susquehannah, which rises in New-York, and flows through New-York, Pennsylvania and Maryland. Fort Monroe might be claimed as a national necessity, and not given up to Virginia in case of secession. Mr. WISE had before spoken of the guns of Fort Monroe being turned landward. He regarded the settlement of the principle that the Federal Government may rightfully hold Pickens and the Tortugas as far more dangerous to Virginia than the mere pointing of guns towards her soil.

TIM RIVES, of Prince George, took the floor and made a vigorous and severe attack on the Secessionists. The style and look of this gentleman is peculiar, and give an effect to his speaking that I cannot describe He opposed the whole movement to send Commissioners to Washington. He wished to know wherein the Commissioners of the "Confederate States" now in Washington had failed in their duty, that the Virginia Convention should step in to supercede them? What right had the Secessionists to come before this Convention and ask for new causes and elements of agitation? They had denounced the Convention as "conservative." The Seceded States had, by their act, produced all the trouble and unhappiness in the country. Now they threw the blame on anybody and everybody else. They had professed to know all along what Mr. LINCOLN was

COURT OF APPEALS.

Third Week—Tuesday's Minutes.

Full Bench—Comstock, C. J.

No. 36—The People ex rel. De Forest vs. Deniston, and Same ex rel. Long Island Railroad Company vs. the Same.—Argued together; Chas. G. Meyers, Attorney-General, for appellant; A. C. Paige for respondent.

The People ex rel. the Bank of the Commonwealth vs. The Commissioners of Taxes.—Argued; Mr. Bradford for appellant; Greene C. Bronson for respondent.

The Constitution of 1846 and the State Credit—Its Effect upon Subsequent Legislation respecting Prior Acts.

The People ex rel. H. G. De Forest, vs. Robert Denniston, State Comptroller, and one other case.—In 1840 the Legislature pledged the credit of the State, to the amount of $100,000, to the Long Island Railroad Company, in aid of the construction of their road. The act directed that the Comptroller deliver to the Treasurer of the Company certificates of stock to that extent, at 6 per cent., upon the production of the affidavits of five Directors of the Company, setting forth that $400,000 of the capital stock had actually been expended in the building of the road.

In 1846 the new Constitution was made to provide "that the credit of this State shall not in any manner be given or loaned to or in aid of any individual, Association or Corporation."

In 1858 the Legislature passed an Act providing for the reimbursement of this stock in 1876, and directing the Comptroller to indorse the certificates of stock to that effect. The Comptroller believing that the Constitution of 1846 rendered the Act of 1858 void, declined to do as directed, leaving the holders of certificates to the redress of the Courts. De Forest presented his certificates, and the indorsement being refused, he applied for a mandamus, at a Special term of the Supreme Court, before Justice Potter. The Court held that as the Constitution of 1846 provided that "such acts of the Legislature of this State as are now in force shall be and continue the law of this State, subject to such alterations as the Legislature shall make concerning them,"—the act of 1858 was constitutional and valid. It was only an act providing for the reimbursement of stock, and concerning a credit already pledged by prior legislation. The mandamus was granted. Upon appeal to the General Term the judgment was affirmed. The Comptroller now appeals to this Court, and sustains his position by the clause of the Constitution of 1846 above quoted. Case argued.

John R. Weeks, attorney for relator; Charles G. Meyers, Attorney-General, for State.

Affairs of the Ohio Life and Trust Co.—The Transfer of Remittances.

Wm. Scott vs. Ocean Bank.—The plaintiff, as alleged, was in the habit of remitting money drafts, &c., to the Ohio Life Insurance Company, which were passed to his credit as money. There was no evidence, as appears, of an agreement that they should be so credited until after collection. The plaintiff remitted a draft for $2,000, which reached the Trust Company here on the eve of its failure in 1857, the plaintiff being then its creditor to an amount exceeding $100,000. The draft was turned over to the Ocean Bank as security to the Trust Company's liabilities to that institution. The Ocean Bank collected the money, and claim the right to retain it. This action was brought to recover it of that Bank, and the only question is, whether the business arrangements between the plaintiff and the Trust Company were such as would warrant the Trust Company in thus using his drafts, after crediting him with them, or in other words, whether by crediting him with the drafts, they then became the property of the Company to such an extent as gave them the right of transfer. The Ocean Bank claim that such was the case. The plaintiff claims that the Trust Company was his agent for the purpose of collection only, and that it could not have nor acquire property in his remittances for such a purpose. Case argued.

E. L. Fancher for appellant; G. F. Marbury for respondent.

Are United States Stocks liable to be Taxed by the States?

The People in the relation of the Bank of the Commonwealth, appellants, vs. The Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, City and County of New-York, respondents.—In the year 1859, the Bank of the Commonwealth returned to the Commissioners of Taxes that its capital was $750,000, of which sum $103,000 was invested in stocks of the United States, and the Bank claimed that the sum so invested in United States stocks was exempt from taxation, and that the assessment should be made accordingly. The Commissioners decided against the claim of the Bank, and assessed it for the amount of its capital stock, after deducting the amount paid for real estate. The Bank removed the matter into the Supreme Court, by certiorari, where the decision of the Commissioners was affirmed both at Special and General Term. The Bank now appeals to this Court, and the question is whether a Bank, which is taxable upon its capital as a nominal amount, can escape taxation by investing its money in stocks of the General Government.

The argument is that a State cannot tax Federal Stocks, as such, because under color of that power it might impose such burdens upon the stock as practically to prevent the Federal Government's being able to make any loan within the State jurisdiction. On the other hand, the argument is that the State may tax all the capital of the bank as money, which in the first instance it must have been, and that having come under that liability, there is no reason for defeating it—especially in the case of a corporation, a purely artificial being created by State legislation and acting only according to its will—because the bank subsequently choses to convert that money into United States stock, a mode of investment which the State Government could clearly prohibit as to corporations, though it could not as to natural persons. Case argued.

A. W. Bradford, for appellants; Greene C. Bronson opposed.

Street Improvements—Irregularities After Judgment.

SUPREME COURT—CHAMBERS.

Before Justice Leonard.

Matter of the application of Hiram Miller.—This application was for leave to take proofs of certain frauds and irregularities alleged to have been committed in assessments for the improvement of Seventy-ninth-street. The opinion of the Court explains the case:

LEONARD, J.—A new and summary remedy was provided by the act of April 17, 1858, (Sess. L., Chap. 338,) for the relief of parties whose rights were infringed by assessments for local improvements infected with fraud or legal irregularity.

These terms are used in the same sense, and should receive the same construction and effect, that have been previously applied to them in legal proceedings.

No new result or effect is given to fraud or legal irregularity, nor was it intended to create new causes of action for which no remedy previously existed, or to revive old ones, against which a valid legal bar existed, according to the law as previously expounded by the Courts.

A judgment has been rendered against these premises by a tribunal of limited and special jurisdiction, in a matter wherein cognizance has been specially conferred by law on such tribunal.

The judgment is conclusive on parties and privies in cases free from fraud, and where none of the requisite steps to give jurisdiction have been omitted. Such omissions, if any exist, are legal irregularities, and will, as well as the commission of fraud, affect the validity of the judgment.

Courts have, on certiorari and by action, for a long time heretofore, vacated and annulled assessments for frauds, and for legal irregularities affecting the jurisdiction of the tribunal by which the assessment was imposed.

Legal irregularities, not affecting the question of jurisdiction, are cured, unless the objection is raised before judgment. (3 Coms. R., 611, Emsbury vs. Conner.) These principles have long prevailed.

No change has been made by the act in question in the rules laid down by the Courts in these respects. The questions to be brought before a Judge of the Supreme Court under this act are to be heard and determined on the principles which have been heretofore decided and acted upon.

Two objections are made in respect to the assessment for constructing a sewer:

1. A large amount of the work included in the assessment, exceeding $500, was constructed without any contract.

2. That it does not appear that the persons who made the assessment were ever appointed Assessors, and that certain persons who appear to have been appointed Assessors did not sign the assessment; nor does it appear that they were removed.

Neither of these objections are so taken as to authorize the petitioner to go into proofs on the subject.

It is not alleged that the work was not performed, or not well performed, or that it ought to have been done for less. But the want of these allegations is not here referred to as an answer to these objections.

The first objection does not present such an irregularity as would affect the jurisdiction of the Common Council in confirming the assessment. Had the objection been made before either Board of the Common Council, they might have thought proper not to pay the contractor who had performed the extra work without a legal contract.

The work may have been fairly done, and the Common Council may have felt equitably bound to pay for it. There is no pretence to allege that it would be fraudulent in a proper case so to do. However this may have been, the objection comes too late.

The second objection is not stated in such a manner as to warrant an [illegible] [illegible] the [illegible].

It is not sufficient [illegible] [illegible] to be.

Nothing is sworn [illegible] the subject, except that certain persons who [illegible] the assessment-roll do not appear to have been appointed or to have qualified. And certain others were appointed and qualified, but the former do not appear to have been deposed, removed or suspended.

Such a statement is not an allegation of the existence of any fact that is material to the subject.

The same petitioner also applies to vacate an assessment imposed for regulating, grading, setting curb and gutter stones, and flagging a part of Seventy-ninth-street, affecting a portion of the same premises included in the assessment for constructing the sewer above mentioned.

One objection to the latter assessment is, that three assessors were appointed and qualified; that without these having been legally removed, the assessment purports to be signed by two other persons as assessors.

There is no allegation, however, that those who signed the assessment were not appointed and qualified, nor in what the want of legality consisted, whereby the former assessors were removed. The facts establishing the illegality of the removal ought to be alleged.

Another objection to the assessment refers to a supposed fraud, sufficient, perhaps, if sustained by proof, to require that this assessment be vacated.

The first statement of this fraud, at folio twenty-eight of the petition, is wholly defective. Subsequently, at folio thirty, there is, however, a charge sufficiently definite to require proof to be taken on the point. The charge here is that the written agreement for the work "contains material erasures and obliterations wrongfully and fraudulently varying, changing and increasing the prices for which the work was to be done."

The other objections do not amount to a charge of fraud or legal irregularity within the decisions heretofore made in actions to relieve from assessments.

The petitioner may proceed with his proofs in respect to the charge of the fraudulent erasures and obliterations of the contract mentioned in the petition for regulating, grading, &c., in Seventy-ninth-street, whereby the prices were changed or increased. In all other respects the application to take proofs is denied. (26 Wend. R., 132; The Mayor, &c., vs. Messerole, 9 Paige, 388; Van Doren vs. The Mayor, &c., 12 N. Y. R., 140; The Mayor, &c., vs. Colgate, 14 N. Y. R., 298; Sandford vs. The Mayor, &c., 3 Coms. R., 511; Emsbury vs. Conner.)

J. W. & C. J. Mitchell for petitioner; H. H. Anderson for Corporation.

A number of similar cases, turning upon the old point of the contract having been given to other than the lowest bidder, were disposed of—the decisions in which were given in the TIMES of Tuesday.

Court of General Sessions.

BAD MONEY GETS A BAD MAN INTO A BAD PLACE.

In this Court, yesterday, before Recorder HOFFMAN, Thomas McConnell, who had previously pleaded guilty of forgery in the fourth degree, was sentenced to State Prison for two years.

A BOLD THEFT AND ITS REWARD.

Abraham Ward and John Moore, indicted for grand larceny, were put to the bar, the case of Ward being proceeded with first.

John Weeks—A boy employed in a store near that from which the articles were stolen, testified that he saw the two persons drive up and get out; shortly after one of them brought out a bundle and put it in the wagon; the other soon came out and both together drove away; the place from which the articles were stolen was the New-York Dyeing and Printing Establishment, No. 98 Duane-street.

The Porter of the place testified: That the prisoner drove up to the place, when Ward got out and led the witness into the office, saying that he wanted to pay him a bill; while they were in the office, Moore took a box of silk handkerchiefs worth $550, and put them into the wagon. Ward didn't pay the bill but said he would call again when one of the proprietors was in. He then went out, and both prisoners drove rapidly away. A clerk in the store testified that he was putting up the shutters when the prisoners came to the place. When he saw them put the bundle in the cart and hurry away, he smelt mischief and called the police.

Capt. Pettes next testified that he arrested the prisoners, and that they were identified by those who had already testified.

For the defence, Jacob Worth testified that at the time when the theft was alleged to have been committed Ward was in his (the witness') house, at No. 245 Stanton-street. This was ten minutes past eight in the morning.

Katharine Worth, wife of the last witness, testified to the same effect as her husband.

Frederick Barder testified that he lived at No. 121 William-street. He saw the prisoner Ward at the house of the last witness at half-past eight on the morning of the theft.

Robert Cardy gave the prisoner a good character, as did also other witnesses.

There were no further witnesses, and the jury rendered a verdict of guilty. It being the prisoner's first offence, so far as known, he was sentenced to Sing Sing for two years. This case occupied nearly the entire day. There was but one more trial.

DISHONEST BOYS.

John Kavanagh and James Osborne pleaded guilty of petit larceny, and were sent to the Penitentiary for six months each.

A STRANGER DRUGGED AND ROBBED.

Henry Myers, indicted for grand larceny, was next put to the bar.

Charles Weaner testified that on the 25th of October last he came to this City from Pennsylvania, to be treated for an affection of the ear. He went to the prisoner's place, No. 53 Greenwich-street, and put up for the night; feeling somewhat unwell, he informed the prisoner that he was ill; the prisoner gave him a glass of something which he remarked would "do him good;" this he drank and retired to bed; for a long time he did not go to sleep, but lay in a kind of stupor; while in this condition he saw the prisoner enter and take his vest from the bed, where he had placed it; witness did not speak or attempt to stop the act; in the morning he found that $77, which had been left in the pocket, was gone; before retiring he had paid eithteen cents for his lodging, notwithstanding which, however, payment was again demanded in the morning; when the witness discovered his loss he proceeded to a magistrate, and entered his complaint; on his subsequent return to the house the prisoner asked where he had been; he explained, when prisoner replied, "You country chaps are not smart enough." There were no further witnesses except in proof of the prisoner's good character. The jury took the case and rendered a verdict of guilty, and the prisoner was remanded for sentence.

The Court then adjourned to this morning at 10 o'clock, when the following cases will be taken up:

INSTRUCTION.

MOUNT WASHINGTON COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE, No. 218 4th-st., corner of Macdougal, on Washington-square. G. W. CLARKE, A. M., and JAS. FANNING, A. M., Proprietors and Principals, open the closing term of its eighteenth school year April 27, 1861.

As a thoroughly organized Private High School, which is one of the oldest and best sustained in the City, having Junior, Middle and Senior Departments, two hundred pupils, (from seven years old and upwards,) and twelve professors, the completeness of its instruction in preparing students for business or college, the beauty and healthfulness of its location, the accessibility of its central position from every part of New-York and the neighboring cities, and the large, well-ventilated, light and admirably contrived rooms, filling three stories of a building erected by the proprietors expressly for its accommodation, are generally known. Its numerous classes of every grade, in Latin, Greek, Mathematics, Modern Languages, Commercial Studies, Drawing and Painting, with all the English branches, offer unusual advantages to those to whom "time is money," and who cannot afford to waste this precious article on worthless instruction among promiscuous masses.

No. 128 BROADWAY, March 11, 1861.

G. W. CLARKE, Esq.:

MY DEAR SIR: In the pressure of professional engagements, I forgot to excuse the withdrawal of my two sons last November. I desire now to say to you that a change of residence to the country rendered it necessary, and that at an early day they will, I trust, return to your excellent Institution, to remain until fitted for College. Of the unsurpassed advantages of your School I can bear witness, for the progress of my sons under your care was all and more than I could have expected. Their residence in the country has led me to believe that New-York City is the best place for the instruction and training of youth—as I doubt not that your school is one of the best in the City. Yours truly,

JOHN LIVINGSTON.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Our Washington dispatches this morning will be found to corroborate the statements made in yesterday's Times, that one motive of the Administration in the recent extensive naval and military movements was the necessity for the immediate supply of Fort Sumpter with provisions. The steamship Baltic is now stated to be the particular vessel detailed for this duty. It will be recollected that she has on board, besides a large quantity of stores, a number of launches, yawls, &c., and the troops on board are intended to repel attacking parties, for which purpose they are supplied with boat howitzers. The intention of the Government is simply to furnish Major Anderson with provisions; but should this be resisted, and should it become necessary to use force, the men who fight their way into the Fort will remain there. The Government have, it is understood, fully notified the authorities at Charleston of their intentions, and the responsibility of inaugurating a war must remain with those who resist.

The news direct from Charleston is of the most warlike character, and indicates a probability that within twenty-four hours, unless telegraphic communication shall be cut off, we shall hear that hostilities have commenced. Lieut. Talbot, the messenger recently in Washington from Fort Sumpter, had returned, but was not allowed by the authorities to proceed to the Fort to deliver his dispatches to Major Anderson—it being understood that they were unfavorable to the views of the Secessionists. Mr. R. L. Chew, who accompanied Lieut. Talbot as a messenger from the Government to the authorities at Charleston, conveyed the information given above relative to the intention of the Administration to send provisions to the Fort. The answer of the authorities is that no ship shall be permitted to enter the harbor with supplies; consequently it is difficult to see how a collision is to be avoided. The city of Charleston is under arms, and everything, judging from our dispatches, wears the most warlike aspect. The surgeons have been called upon to hold themselves in readiness for duty; reinforcements of troops are constantly arriving and being sent to positions on the islands, and martial law will probably be proclaimed throughout the State of South Carolina. It is also understood in Charleston that the eighteen thousand additional volunteers, just called for by Jeff. Davis, are intended to operate against the North.

Gov. Curtin, of Pennsylvania, yesterday sent to the Legislature of that State a special message relative to national affairs, and recommending the appropriation of half a million dollars for the proper military organization of the State. He also suggests the establishment of a military bureau at the Capital, and other modifications of the Militia laws, in order that the State may be in the most complete state of readiness for any emergency which may arise. Gov. Curtin mentions, incidentally, that he has received a letter from President Lincoln, in which he states that he has information of a design to attack Washington.

In the Virginia State Convention, yesterday, the discussion on the resolutions was continued. An amendment stating that the Federal authorities have no power to deal with the subject of secession in any way, was voted down—114 to 12. A resolution was adopted—128 to 20—declaring that the Convention was willing that the seceded States should be recognized as independent Powers. An amendment declaring "that in the event of proposed amendments to the Constitution being rejected by the Non-Slaveholding States Virginia will secede," was voted down—57 to 68. Private advices that Fort Sumpter is to be reinforced produced a sensation in and outside the Convention.

The Persia, which, leaving Liverpool at noon, March 30, arrived here early yesterday morning, after a remarkably short passage, brings advices from Europe two days later. The news is of interest. The preparations of Austria for war in the Venetia were continued at accelerated speed, and apprehensions that a conflict was imminent were becoming universal. Denmark also was arming rapidly, in view of the recent determination of the Holstein-Schleswig Chambers to resist the introduction of a new Constitution. The debate on the question of the Italian Capital had been closed on the 27th with a speech of Count Cavour, advocating the selection of Rome. The general European intelligence is without essential interest. The Sultan is said to have declined the offered aid of the great Powers in revising his intended reforms, fearing that the intervention of Russia might give them a wider scope than he desired. It was reported that the Powers would insist upon the measure. The commercial advices, owing to the interposition of Good Friday, are but a day later, and indicate no marked change. The Persia brings more than a quarter of a million in coin.

The Pony Express, with California dates to the 29th ult., arrived at Fort Kearney yesterday. The question of the legality of the election of Mr. McDougall to the U. S. Senate was still undecided. A premium of $10,000 had been offered to the first person who should grow on California soil, and there prepare for market one hundred bales of cotton of 500 pounds each. Coal-oil springs are reported as discovered in Humboldt County. It is estimated that the Cumberland Black Diamond coal mines will yield 15,000 tons per year. The dates from British Columbia are to the 18th, and from Oregon to the 20th. The Kinaka Bay mines are reported as yielding $40 per day to each miner. Both parties in Washington Territory had called conventions to nominate candidates for Congress, and business was reviving. There were indications of a rush to the new mines in Neypall County.

Business at the Custom-House proceeds with great regularity, and little difficulty is experienced by the Appraiser and other officers in the discharge of their duties. There were thirty-five foreign arrivals on Monday, and sixteen yesterday. Mr. Barney has got fairly under way, and shows great readiness in disposing of all questions submitted for his decision. From 3 until 4 o'clock, P. M., the new Collector "received his friends"—the applicants for office—some two hundred of whom paid their respects to him. Some of the old Inspectors, it was rumored, on Monday made an extensive seizure of jewelry and lace, which were being smuggled in by a passenger on one of the steamers.

In the New-York State Senate, yesterday, the morning session was occupied with the consideration of the Supply bill. The bill to amend the revised statutes relative to trial by jury was reported complete. Mr. Rotch reported favorably the bill to prevent and punish the sale of impure or swill milk. In the Assembly, the Annual Appropriation bill was passed and sent to the Governor [illegible] a number of bills, among which were those to amend the Long Island Railroad Company's charter; relative to the New-York Chamberlaincy; incorporating the American Church Missionary Society. Mr. Webster reported the bill to exempt lager-bier from the operation of the Excise law, but the measure was killed for the session, by being laid on the table. The Broadway Railroad bill came up and shared the same fate, on motion of Mr. Hardy, being likewise killed for the session, by a vote of 73 to 38.

Stephen Van Rensellaer, son of the Patroon of Albany, committed suicide yesterday at a drinking saloon, by swallowing laudanum. Naturally of good abilities, having had every advantage which wealth could furnish—and starting in life under the most favorable circumstances, he has made himself for years, by his debauchery and profligacy, a pest and disgrace to his friends, hateful to himself and a nuisance to society. He was 35 years old.

The Board of Supervisors held a brief and very unimportant session yesterday. The County balance, as sent in by the Comptroller, showed $59,730 57 in the treasury at the close of last week. The members generally seemed anxious to go to, or hear from Albany, and at an early hour an adjournment was had until Tuesday of next week.

Among other cases argued in the Court of Appeals, yesterday, was that of the Long Island Railroad Company against the Comptroller of the State, in the matter of the mandamus respecting the $100,000 of stock given the Company on the credit of the State, in 1840. The only question involved is as to the effect of the provisions of the Constitution of 1840, on such loans, and the acts of the Legislature concerning them. Another important case argued in the same Court was that of the Bank of the Commonwealth against the Commissioners of Taxes, involving the question whether or not the different States may tax United States stocks in the hands of persons and corporations within their limits. In the General Sessions there was one sentence to Sing Sing for two years, for forgery; one for the same time and to the same place for grand larceny; and two to the Penitentiary for six months, on pleas of petty larceny.

The Stock Market was again under a heavy depression from political causes yesterday, and there was great eagerness to sell early in the day. At the Second Board, and later in the afternoon, there was a steadier feeling on a partial recovery in prices. Exchange on London fell off to 107½ ℔ cent. The trade returns for March were reported firm, the Custom-house showing a large increase in the Exports of Domestic Produce and a heavy falling off in the Import entries.

The sales of Cotton were light, though prices were reduced a shade. Breadstuffs were freely offered and purchased. Flour and Corn declined. Oats advanced. Limited transactions were reported in Groceries, Provisions, Naval Stores, Oils, Tobacco, Hops, Fish and Metals. Hay was in fair request. Whisky was heavy, and prices favored buyers. The Freight engagements were more extensive, but at easier rates.

The Cattle Market was well supplied yesterday, about 3,500 beeves being in the Forty-fourth-street yards. The sales at Bergen Hill on Monday amounted to some 500 head, which, with those already at Allerton's and others expected to-day, will make a total quite above the offerings of last week. The stock is of fair quality, and prices about as one week ago, viz: 8c.@8½c. ℔ lb. for most of the good cattle, although first-class steers sold at 9c. to a limited extent. Business was dull, and plenty of cattle were left over for to-day.

The Prospect at Pensacola.

The hero now at the head of the Cotton States Army and Republic, has, after mature deliberation, selected Pensacola as the first field for the display of his strategical qualities.

The Administration at Washington, inspired, certainly by no military ardor, nor yet invested by the public sentiment with any special genius for military tactics, have most unwillingly submitted to an irresistible necessity, and consented, according to popular rumor, to meet the crisis, and test the strength of the traitor precisely on that ground—the ground of his own choice. There is no middle path—the alternatives submitted to the Government are simply surrender or resistance. It is now generally believed, as it is earnestly hoped, by nearly every patriot, that they have finally accepted the policy of resistance to coercion, and will make a first stand at Pensacola, if not, indeed, as is still the anxious hope of many, at Fort Sumpter also.

The most recent accounts from the belligerent shores of the Gulf narrate the movements of large masses of hostile troops—armed with the weapons abstracted from the national arsenals—from the States of Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, by various routes, but all converging upon the harbor of Pensacola and its surrounding batteries and offensive works.

Here then, on this chosen ground, the rebel force will find the long-sought opportunity to give its first display of prowess, and its chieftain an equal chance to confirm his title to their confidence, by consummating his early promise to let the country know "the smell of Southern powder, and feel the edge of Southern steel."

In view of the formidable preparations for this long-menaced attack, and the unstifled hum of military sounds and rumors which have accompanied its inception, it will be worth while for the peace-loving population of the Northern States to examine the site selected for this trial of the strength of the rebels against the strength of the country.

Happily for the peaceful occupations of society, the harbor of Pensacola, which the leader of the Disunionists proposes first to stain with the blood of his countrymen, though a point of considerable strategical value to the Government, as a base for any future naval operations which may become necessary in the Gulf of Mexico, is a place of no commercial importance. Consequently, the struggle which it is supposed is about to be inaugurated there, will cause the least possible disturbance of the ordinary pursuits of men compatible with a state of civil strife, and can lead to but little loss of life on the side of those brave and loyal troops, whose sad but enviable duty it may soon become to defend the public property, and uphold their country's honor, at that point.

The ostensible object of the military gathering of the rebel forces is to assail and take Fort Pickens, the principal fortress covering the entrance to the harbor of Pensacola, the naval station of the Gulf of Mexico.

The position of Fort Pickens, for satisfying the purposes of its erection, is a very commanding one. This fortress is situated on the western extremity of the long and narrow Island of Santa Rosa, and forms the centre of the very regular curve followed by the channel of approach to the capacious harbor within. This channel sweeps around the west end of the Island, forming a complete semicircle, described by a radius of something less than a mile, and commanded, in all its development, by the guns of the fort, practically radiating from the centre to the circumference of the circle. But the very favorable position which the fort occupies for commanding the channel of approach to the harbor, exposes the work itself to the concentrated fire of an enemy occupying,—as the troops of the insurgents at this moment do,—the forts and batteries on the Florida shore; for this shore, beyond the channel, to the north and west, also sweeps around Fort Pickens as a centre, offering suitable ground, throughout a space of nearly four miles, for planting forts and batteries, of which the concentrated fire will converge directly upon the fort. This ground is already occupied by Fort McRae, at the distance of a mile and a quarter; by Fort Barrancas, at the distance of a mile and three-eighths; and the redoubt at the distance of [illegible]; besides some twenty or more sand batteries recently erected, of which none can be nearer than a mile and a quarter, but of which any desirable increase may be made on this circuit of four miles, within a range of twenty-five hundred yards from the faces they are intended to enfilade.

There can be no room to doubt that if an enemy, in sufficient force, were permitted to occupy these old and new works, thus planted around Fort Pickens,—assuming that they are supplied with appropriate artillery,—that fortress, left to its own garrison, would ultimately be reduced by the incessant converging fire of shell and shot which would be poured upon it. This result is, no doubt, precisely what is expected by the assailants who are now hastening on to occupy the formidable works which have been so long in course of unresisted preparation.

But the case has other points of view. Santa Rosa Island, where Fort Pickens stands, is less than half a mile in width, tapering down gradually, as we advance eastwardly from the fort up the harbor, to a width of only about 300 yards, which it attains at a point about two miles from the site of the fort. On both sides of the Island—that is, both on the sea side and the harbor side—vessels may approach very close to the shore, drawing from three to four fathoms water, so that the whole breadth of the Island may be swept not only by the guns of the fort, but also by those of the fleet, thus rendering it impracticable for an enemy, without great exposure and the certainty of heavy loss, to undertake to occupy the Island, and keep open his communications, in face of a power holding the fort and at the same time having command of the sea. But, on the other hand, the Island may be safely, promptly and very advantageously occupied by any reinforcements which the Government may choose to land there, for the purpose of establishing batteries to respond to and divide the fire of the besiegers.

There are other local facts which will have material weight in deciding this immediate and apparently approaching contest. It so happens that in arranging the plan of Fort Pickens, and the sites of Forts McRae and Barrancas, with a view to sweep the channel, these two forts, now held by the insurgents, are respectively opposite the curtains of Fort Pickens—each presenting a salient angle, or weak point, to the direct fire of the face, or strong front, of that fort. These forts, therefore, it is reasonable to conclude, must soon be overpowered and silenced by the fire of Fort Pickens.

This conclusion applies peculiarly to Fort McRae—the work nearest the sea, and which, besides being very inferior to Fort Pickens in all the essentials of strength, will receive its fire at disadvantage, and be exposed, at the same time, to the guns of any man-of-war which may be detailed to coöperate in the defence of that fortress.

It is to be presumed, therefore, that if the United States Government refuses to submit quietly to the threatened "coercion," but determines rather to defend itself with reasonable energy and spirit, the rebels must soon be driven out of Fort McRae. This work, though it may be materially injured before it is abandoned, will still furnish an available support for the national flag on the opposite side of the channel, when its occupation will expose the adjacent batteries of the insurgents to a fire on their extreme right flank.

Such is the field of contest chosen by the rebel leaders for the first exhibition of their valor. It is not to be denied that their position and preparations are formidable, and will call for great energy on the part of those who now control the policy and direct the strength of the nation. But that energy properly directed will enable the Government to maintain its authority, and give its enemies a salutary lesson at the very outset of their rash career.

Let Fort Pickens, then, be amply supplied and fully garrisoned, and well supported on the sea side. Let additional batteries be planted on Santa Rosa Island, to sustain the fort and divert the fire of the insurgents.

Confined to Pensacola, the struggle will be comparatively harmless to the great public and private interests of the nation; while that demoralization which war necessarily brings with it will also be confined to a population and region which will be less injured by its pernicious accompaniments than any other in this happy country.

Position of Virginia.

Virginia, up to a recent period, has been the leading State of the Union, so far as influencing the Government was concerned. She has given direction to the general current of our politics, has influenced the legislation and public policy of the country, to a greater degree than any other State. There can be no doubt that she still holds this commanding position towards the Slaveholding States. She has thus far resisted the attempt to coerce or surprise her into political subserviency to the Gulf States,—nor do we believe it likely that she will ever consent to assume that position. But upon her course unquestionably depends that of Maryland, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, and all the other Slaveholding States which are yet loyal to the Union.

Her action is, therefore, a matter of the utmost importance, and those who would form an accurate judgment of the political tendencies of the day, cannot fail to watch the development of her public sentiment with the utmost interest. We publish this morning the first of the series of Reports which we shall receive regularly from the Special Correspondent whom we have sent from the Times Office to observe the progress of political affairs in the Old Dominion. He is a gentleman of ability, of large political experience, and thoroughly acquainted with the people and the sentiment of the Southern States.

The letters which we publish to-day report a very interesting and important debate in the Convention, upon a proposition to send a Committee to Washington to demand of the President an exposé of his policy. The project was warmly opposed on various grounds:—but the most important incident of the debate was a declaration by Mr. Jackson, an influential Delegate from Western Virginia, that he and his constituents would secede from the State, if the State seceded from the Union, on the pretext of coercion applied to the seceded States. The whole debate was interesting and important, and will well repay perusal.

Captain Mercer.—In our issue of yesterday reference was made to the detachment of Capt. Mercer from the steam-frigate Powatan, implying that it proceeded from his sectional proclivities. We learn from very reliable authority that there is no Officer in the Navy that has more unreservedly expressed his attachment to the Union than Capt. Mercer—especially when in command of the Powhatan, in the Gulf of Mexico, during the incipiency of secession, and ever since. In fact, he has been heard to say that so long as there was a Star or Stripe in existence, indicative of the Union, he would stick by it. He has sworn allegiance to the United States, has never swerved from that allegiance, and never will.

We know nothing of the cause of Capt. Mercer's detachment from the Powhatan, but we do know, from good authority, that the Government has the highest confidence in both his efficiency and loyalty.

The South and its Foreign Relations.

We were not mistaken in supposing that the new Southern Heptarchy, resting on Negro Slavery as its corner-stone, would heartily welcome the threatened seizure of St. Domingo by Spain. The Charleston Mercury thus expresses its sentiments on this point:

> "In this state of things, Spain takes possession of Hayti. Let her take it. If her power is wisely used, she will bring the negro again to his natural condition of Slavery. She will make him useful to himself, and useful to the world. In contact with the white man, he may again be lifted up to that degree of civilization his nature will enable him to attain. Under the control of the white man, he may again possess a coerced morality, a coerced civilization, a coerced knowledge of true religion; and thus, happier himself, contribute to the world's happiness. We wish Spain all success in her enterprise."

The Mercury's idea of religion and morality, we fear, is somewhat peculiar. It certainly is a new doctrine that they can be "coerced." But what the Mercury means by a moral, a civilized and a religious negro is, one who is a slave. Slavery comprehends morality and Christianity; it embraces and includes them both, in the secession creed. The slave code is the secession bible—the auction-block its altar—the slave-mart its assembly of saints. Whatever promises to make slaves of negroes, is the gospel of secession,—the glad tidings of great joy to the followers of Jeff. Davis and the secession flag.

The Mercury says "it is the policy of the Confederate States to seek and cultivate the most intimate and friendly relations with all other Slaveholding States." Undoubtedly. Every nation naturally seeks its close allies with those resting on the same fundamental principles. A community of sentiment draws nations into the closest and most intimate relations, no matter what oceans may divide them.

The King of Dahomey and Jefferson Davis will speedily establish an entente cordiale, based upon identity of principles and institutions, mutuality of interests, reciprocity of good offices, and a very strong family likeness in temper and disposition. Both are the crowned apostles of the new faith. Both uphold the same doctrines, practice the same policy, aim at the same results and encounter the same obstacles. The Mercury is quite right in urging the cultivation of the "most intimate and friendly relations" between them. Their alliance will put to shame, by its cordiality and closeness, that of the French and English, because it is between rulers who believe in the same civilization, the same morality and the same religion.

We half suspect Mr. W. L. Yancey goes to Dahomey, instead of England, on this special mission. We should not be in the least surprised to hear of his speedy return, bringing with him a Commercial Treaty between these great and good friends. The King of Dahomey has negroes who need civilization, morality and religion:—and Jefferson Davis has all these in abundance, for which he has not the slightest home demand, and which he would be only too happy to shower in profusion on the heads of his great friend's transported subjects. Mr. Yancey will receive a welcome at the Court of the King of Dahomey, if he has really gone thither as special Envoy, which will put to shame the proudest pageants of the Western World. We hope he will regulate the enthusiasm of his new master's new ally somewhat. He ought not to permit the roasting of over fifty sable damsels, as a thank-offering for his arrival. Their market value renders such a sacrifice shockingly inconsistent with the "coerced religion" to which he is commissioned to introduce them.

There have been expectations in some quarters quite at variance with this newly-declared policy of the Slave Heptarchy. It was supposed that the Heptarchs might object to these demonstrations of Spain, as likely to interfere with their seizure of Cuba. Their organ, the Mercury, thus disposes of that question:

> "The Monroe Doctrine—the doctrine of Southern statesmen when ruling the counsels of the United States—goes with the dissolution of the Union of the United States. Cuba is no longer of any use to the Southern States as a counterpoise to the growing and insolent ascendency of the North. She may be a valuable friend and ally. The more prosperous and powerful she is, the better for the Confederate States; and the wider Spain can extend the institutions of Cuba over adjacent Islands, the more worthy she becomes to be our ally."

This is the new doctrine. We commend it to attention and consideration. It shows conclusively that the Southern Heptarchy has adopted new ideals of national ambition. The King of Dahomey is to be the model monarch of the new era. His institutions,—his principles, his tastes, the policy which has made his Kingdom what it is, are the bright examples by which this newest born and blackest of the nations will guide its high career. We have not the slightest doubt that it will very speedily eclipse, if not extinguish, its great original.

Lack of Food in Mississippi.—There can be no doubt that there is in Mississippi a lack of food for the population which threatens to amount to a famine. The Vicksburg Whig of the 30th ult., notices the return of Maj. Hawkins, who recently made a visit to Illinois for the purpose of procuring supplies. He states that he has found it impossible to obtain as much as will be needed for present necessities, and that there is great danger they may not be able to plant and raise a crop this year.

Hon. W. C. Smedes, one of the most energetic and public spirited citizens of the State, has published a letter in regard to the steps which he took in the Legislature to guard against the impending famine. He drew up a bill appropriating $100,000 to be invested in corn and breadstuffs to be sold at cost. The Legislature, however, failed to act upon it.

The Brandon Republican of a recent date says:

> "There are hundreds of hard-working, honest men, who are almost entirely destitute, and who must suffer unless they get relief in some form. We have heard of a large number of men who have given up their crops and gone off to hunt work and get food for their families. If they had the corn to feed their families and stock, they could make a crop and pay for it in the Fall. These men do not want it given them. They only want it on a credit until next Fall. Our old friend, Hiram Jones, informs us that there is a great deal of destitution in his neighborhood, and that unless relief is afforded in the next ten days, armed bodies of men will take corn by force from those who have it."

There is an utter lack of money in the State, as well as of food. Major Hawkins had obtained about 17,000 bushels of corn and 1,000 of potatoes, contributed in Illinois for the relief of the suffering and destitute in Mississippi. This certainly does not look as if there was a very intense or bitter hatred on the part of the people of Illinois toward the South. Mississippi certainly has chosen an unfortunate time for a revolutionary movement. They ought to look to President Davis, of the new Confederacy, for relief. He has done more, perhaps, than any other man to involve them in their difficulties, and they ought to hold him to his proper responsibility. How a State which has not a dollar in her Treasury, nor food enough to keep her own people from starving in time of peace, expects to send armies into the field against the Federal Government, we do not find it easy to understand.

A Small Price for a Small State.—Ex-Gov. Rodman M. Price, of New-Jersey, unfortunately has a friend, and that friend whose name is L. W. Burnet, was a short time since seized with an insane desire to write the object of his affections a letter asking his opinion on two points: First, will there be two permanent Confederacies, a Northern and a Southern—the latter comprising all the Slave States? and, secondly, in this event, "what position will best accord with the interests, honor, and patriotic instincts of the people of New-Jersey?" With characteristic coyness, Gov. Price responded. He thinks that in a short period of time all the Slave States will be united in one Confederacy, and says "emphatically" that New-Jersey should go with the South, "from every wise, prudential and patriotic reason." Then, indulging in a glimpse at the future, he appeals to the "thousands" of Jerseymen who contemplate a removal to the South, to wait a little longer, for, in six months, their State will have become a member of that Confederacy to which they desire to go.

This is a delightful picture for our neighbors over the Bay to contemplate. None of them, we venture to say, will deny that their Ex-Governor's financial and political career demonstrates that he is eminently worthy of admission to the fellowship of Floyd, Cobb, and Thompson; but it will be difficult for them to appreciate the motives which impel him to consign them to so sad a fate. Perhaps Gov. Price thinks that a people which will suffer as much as the Jerseymen have from Camden and Amboy, will bear anything, however degrading. Or he may have forgotten that the last decade has obliterated from the State the remnants of the slave population which lingered there in 1850, according to the Census returns. To be sure, Southern trade is worth something to Newark, and while this ambitious ex-dignitary resides in the State, it cannot be denied that New-Jersey had her Price, but by the time the six months which he looks forward to so hopefully have passed, he will, perhaps, be convinced that the State will not sell herself so cheaply as he feigns to imagine.

The Chamberlaincy.—In the House of Assembly, yesterday, the bill to perpetuate the present City Chamberlain in office for four years was reported complete by the Special Committee having charge thereof, and sent on its passage to a third reading. This action on the part of a Republican majority is certainly very difficult of explanation on creditable motives, the officer in question being a political opponent, and appointed under circumstances certainly not furnishing any claim to particular consideration. Left to the natural course of events, the office of City Chamberlain, so long the sport and prey of rival branches of our Democratic City Government, must again become vacant on next 1st of January, and open to the appointment of a new officer by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen to be elected next December. That these officers will prove better men, politically and personally, than those now in power, we have strong faith; while it is obvious to every capacity that they cannot possibly be worse.

Why then should the Legislature be asked to step in and extend, for at least three years, the term of the present incumbent? On what public grounds can such a measure be urged—the Democratic friends of Mr. Devlin, who are now pressing this measure, being the very men who have heretofore clamored most fiercely against "Albany legislating for New-York," and "the invasion of municipal rights by a Black Republican majority of country members." If this Devlin bill is passed, we shall hear it cited during the next charter campaign, by Democratic orators, as a specimen, not only of "Black Republican oppression," but still more, of "Black Republican corruption,"—for it is not possible to conceive on what tenable public grounds such a measure can be sustained.

LATER FR M THE PACIFIC.

Arrival of the Overland Express—The California Senatorial Question Still Undecided—Discovery of Coal Oil—Affairs in British Columbia, &c.

Fort Kearney, Tuesday, April 9.

The Pony Express with later intelligence for the Associated Press, passed here to-day at 2:30 P. M.

San Francisco, Friday, March 29—3:40 P. M.

The Joint Legislative Committee to investigate the facts connected with the recent Senatorial election have not reported, and the question of the legality of Mr. McDougall's election remains as last advised. It is understood that he is willing to enter another contest and surrender his present advantage, if the Committee report that no election has taken place. It is reported that some of the witnesses refuse to testify before the Committee.

The bill to amend the Telegraph Corporation law so as to authorize the present Companies to consolidate and extend their lines to Salt Lake to meet the Eastern lines, has passed the Senate.

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature offering a bonus or premium of $10,000 to any person who shall first grow on California soil, and prepare for market by machinery erected in this State, 100 bales of cotton not less than 500 pounds each.

The bill for the creation of a Boundary Commission, to act in concert with the United States Boundary Commission in running the Eastern boundary line of this State, having passed both Houses of the Legislature, a Joint Convention will be called shortly for the election of a Boundary Commissioner, perhaps this week. John C. McKibben stands the best show for the position.

The news of the formation of the Territory of Nevada by Congress has given great satisfaction to the citizens of the Washoe mining region.

The Twelfth District Court of San Francisco has refused to obey the act of the Legislature transferring the murder trial of Horace Smith to Placer County, on the ground that it is unconstitutional for the Legislature to exercise judicial functions. An appeal to the Supreme Court has been moved.

Coal oil springs are reported as having been discovered north and south in Humboldt County. Considerable interest appears to have sprung up in the development of a new wonder near Los Angelos. The celebrated springs of Asphaltum there are said to issue from a bed of coal capable of furnishing inexhaustible quantities of oil.

The amount of coal shipped from Cumberland and the Black Diamond coal mines, and from Mount Diable, to San Francisco, is reported to be between 700 and 800 tons. The tunnels of two mines are situated 1,500 feet above the level of the bay. The consumption of coal in California the past year was [illegible] tons, of which the amount supplied from the Pacific coast was only 15,000 tons. The Solano Herald thinks that the Cumberland and Black Diamond mines alone will yield 15,000 tons per year.

BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Dates from British Columbia to the 18th, and Oregon and Washington Territories to the 20th, are received.

The steamer Otto arrived at Victoria on the 17th of March from Fraser River. Among her passengers, were Lady Franklin and Miss Craycraft.

The Colonist gives the following summary of news from British Columbia:

The steamers Yale, Flying Dutchman and Maria left New-Westminster on the 16th of March for the up-river towns, carrying good freights.

Miners continue to leave New-Westminster every day for the mines, many in canoes, but the largest portion generally choose steamers.

A company of French miners at Kanaka Bar are making as high as $40 per day to the man, with sluices.

It is reported that the British Government has determined to build a naval dépôt at Esquimault, and that $150,000 is already set aside for that purpose.

The miners are working as high up the Fraser River as Lytton City. The weather has been very favorable for their operations.

The Washington papers estimate the wool crop of that Territory the ensuing season at 200,000 pounds.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

The Democrats have called a Convention to nominate a candidate for Congress on the 14th of May, and the Republicans on the 20th. J. J. Stevens is the most prominent Democratic candidate.

Business of every kind has been very dull in the Territory for some time, but reaction is taking place. There is an increased demand for lumber and spars. The great staple for export from the Territory has given activity to all kinds of business.

The farmers have concluded to profit by the example of California, and hereafter intend to raise a surplus of grain for export.

Great preparations were making in all parts of the Territory for a rush to the new mines in Nesperces County, east of Cascade Range.

Nothing of interest from Oregon.

The report was ordered to be printed.

The Annual Supply bill was ordered to a third reading, and passed—Yeas, 19; Nays, 11.

ASSEMBLY.

Albany, Tuesday, April 9.

On motion of Mr. McDermott, the privilege of the floor was extended to John B. Haskin, M. C., during his stay in the city.

The House concurred in the Senate amendments to the annual appropriation bill, which now goes to the Governor.

General orders were laid on the table for the purpose of giving the Special Committees an opportunity to report bills which have been referred to them under the Robinson resolution.

A large number of bills were thus reported, and sent to a third reading. Among the most important were the following:

To authorize the Contracting Board to place the several canals under contract for repairs.

To amend the Long Island Railroad Company's charter.

In relation to protests on bills, checks and notes falling due on holidays.

Relative to the Chamberlaincy of the City of New-York.

The bill to incorporate the American Church Missionary Society was ordered to a third reading.

Mr. Webster reported the bill to exempt lager-bier and malt liquor from the operation of the Excise Sunday laws.

Mr. Catlin opposed the report, and it was laid on the table, thus killing the bill.

The Broadway Railroad bill being announced in the first Committee of the Whole, Mr. Hardy said that the table was loaded with remonstrances, and as it was too late to waste time upon a measure that would excite so much opposition, he moved to lay the bill on the table.

The motion was carried by yeas 76, nays 38, and the great Broadway Railroad bill was thus laid finally at rest.

The "Long Docks bill" was then taken up and debated in Committee of the Whole.

Considerable time of the afternoon and evening was consumed in a hard fight over the bill to allow a company of gentlemen to put the long locks on all the canals of the State, the bill being supported by the Speaker and Mr. Pierce, and opposed by Messrs. Robinson, Kernan, and others. A warm discussion was had, and a motion defeating the bill was once carried, and then reconsidered. After further debate the bill was referred to a third reading, and then the House refused leave to the Committee of the Whole to sit again, thus killing the bill by a vote of 30 to 68.

The Coles and Harlem Bridge bill was taken up in Committee of the Whole, and after a strong opposition from Mr. Varian, was ordered to a third reading.

The bill for the return of money unconstitutionally collected under the head of Money act, was killed, the enacting clause being stricken out.

Adjourned.

Amusements.

Brooklyn Academy of Music.—A contented mind is a continual feast in morals and in music. Those who looked for "Linda" last night were regaled with the "Somnambula," and the disappointment occasioned by the same, was borne with all the fortitude which we have a right to expect in such a building in such a city, and from an audience accustomed to the contemplation of human nature in a white neck-tie. All things considered the attendance was good, and the appearance of the house brilliant and fashionable. Miss Kellogg appeared as Amina—the third rôle she has undertaken in public. Inasmuch as the opera was substituted at the last moment for another that could not be given in consequence of the indisposition of Signor Ferri, it was, we presume, played without rehearsal. Some allowance has to be made for all the artists, especially for the lady who is comparatively new in the part, having sung it only in Boston. Signor Brignoli, in point of fact, needed a good deal of allowance, and Signor Susini's throat-trouble cried aloud for tender consideration. Miss Kellogg sang the music of her part with decided skill, and acted naturally and spontaneously in all save the finale to the second act, which was, to our mind, fidgety and overwrought. We do not, however, regard Amina as one of the rôles peculiarly fitted for the powers possessed by our New-York prima donna. It is true that an excellent method and a quick nervous facility in overcoming obstacles enable her to attack almost any kind of music with success. But it is clear that her style is dramatic, and that the quality of her voice lends itself better to largeness than to brilliancy. In Linda she is the equal of almost any artist we have ever had in the part, and the superior of the majority of those who have essayed it. We cannot say the same of her Amina, although we may gladly recognize in it the indications of a true artist.

To-night, at our Fourteenth-street [illegible], Halevy's opera of "La Juive" will be revived with Colson, Hinkley, Susini, Stigelli, &c., in cast.

TWO DAYS LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE PERSIA.

QUARTER OF A MILLION IN SPECIE.

A REMARKABLY RAPID PASSAGE.

Concentration of the Austrian Army in Italy.

WARLIKE PREPARATIONS IN DENMARK.

DISTRACTED CONDITION OF TURKEY.

Later From India and China.

The Royal Mail steamship Persia arrived here yesterday morning from Liverpool, via Queenstown, making the shortest passage on record.

Leaving Liverpool at noon on the 30th of March, she reached Queenstown at 9:40 A. M. on the 31st., and sailed thence at 4:43 the same afternoon. She arrived at this port yesterday morning at 8:10 A. M. The time consumed, therefore, from port to port, deducting detention at Queenstown, and allowing for difference of time, was nine days, eight hours and seven minutes. An abstract of the log will be found in another column.

The Persia brings $286,790 in Specie.

The City of Manchester arrived at Queenstown at 4 A. M. on the 29th ult., and was off the port of Liverpool when the Persia sailed.

The 29th ultimo, being Good Friday, was observed as a close holiday. On Saturday, the 30th, also, business was suspended in the Cotton trade, and partially so in other branches of business. There is, consequently, little or no commercial news by the Persia of a later date than that received by the Edinburgh and Canadian.

Parliament not being in session, owing to the Easter recess, there is no political news of importance.

Lord PALMERSTON having accepted the office of Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, had to resign his seat in Parliament for Tiverton, but was reëlected without opposition. In his speech to the electors he adverted to the crisis in America in the following terms:

"There is but one spot in the political horizon, the contemplation of which must inspire us with regret and uneasiness. I mean those convulsions which are now taking place among our cousins in North America, leading to a dissolution of the Union of the formerly United States. It is not for us to judge between the contending parties. It is not for us to say what ought to be; whether compromises ought to be made by which the Union may be maintained, or whether it is best for the happiness of the sections that they should separate and form respectively different associations and confederacies; but of this I am sure, every man who hears me, every British heart will feel that it is our cordial wish that whatever may be the ultimate result of the differences now prevailing, that result may be brought about by amicable adjustments, and that the world may be saved from the afflicting spectacle of seeing brothers arming against brothers and parents against children, and of seeing that state of social happiness which has hitherto been the admiration of mankind, deformed by disputes; and a country which has been the scene of peace and industry polluted by the effusion of blood."

A malignant fever had been imported into Liverpool by an Egyptian frigate, and sundry deaths had taken place and given rise to considerable alarm. Prompt remediable measures had been adopted, and it was believed that there was no cause for further fear.

The balance sheet of the Atlantic Royal Mail Company (Galway line) shows that the deposits and calls on shares actually paid up amounts to £368,213, all of which has been sunk, and, as already stated, the Directors were authorized to raise an additional capital of £600,000, in preference shares, at 7 per cent. interest, thereby raising the nominal capital from half a million to £1,100,000 sterling. This was not agreed to without opposition on the part of some shareholders. The conveyance of telegraphic dispatches between Newfoundland and Ireland, was regarded by the Chairman as a source of income (?), and he also spoke hopefully of the termination of pending negotiations for the conveyance of French mails, and of some future support from the American Government.

The Board of Trade returns for February show a falling off in the exports of £2,348,000, as compared with February, 1860.

The Paris Patrie has an editorial on the presence of the Princes of Orleans at the funeral of the Duchess of Kent, and asks what such a demonstration means? It says the English people have no participation in such manifestations, and thanks God that the great interests of the world are not subordinate to the caprice of Courts.

THE AMERICAN CONTEST.

How the Cost is to be Paid.

From the London Times.

As the political horizon in America gradually darkens, both sides are engaged in mustering their forces, and estimating the probabilities of a future struggle. The South, having been trusted almost up to the present time with the management of the War Department of the Confederacy, has managed to secure stores and money, for which it has long been [illegible] by a civil war, [illegible] the North in a situation in which it is [illegible] in ships, men, and material. The South has been clever enough to constitute itself the executor of the defunct Federation, and has appropriated to its own use all the goods that have fallen in its way, without any very strict regard to title. In the meanwhile, the Southern Republic boasts to have collected an army of [illegible] men, and to be possessed of a competent supply of rifled cannon. Both sides, however, are perfectly aware that it is not by their present forces that the struggle, if once begun, will be decided. In these days it is not the longest sword, but the longest purse that controls the destiny of war, and both sides are straining every effort to place themselves in a creditable financial position. One thing we may observe of both—that each of them seems to have a salutary horror of the only really safe and respectable manner of raising money, by applying directly to the people to supply funds required to advance the policy which we are told the people have deliberately and unhesitatingly sanctioned. Of the expedient to which the North has had recourse we have already spoken; it has imposed on our manufactures and produce a duty so high as to be almost prohibitory. The North has hitherto carried on its machinations with entire impunity, and the vengeance which should have been launched at the head of JEFFERSON DAVIS and his associates has fallen, as is not unusual, upon England, the friend and well-wisher of both parties. The South is emulous of so good an example, and seeks to rival the North, which lays a heavy import duty on our manufactures, by putting an export duty on their principal raw material. Thus, both sides, agreeing in nothing else, are quite unanimous in two things—first, the avoidance of direct taxes upon themselves, and, secondly, the desire to fix upon England the expenses of their inglorious and unnatural combat. We console ourselves in the belief that this narrow and selfish policy will infallibly overreach itself. It is quite in the power of the South to say that no duty shall be paid upon imports from England. It is not in the power of the North to prevent goods from being imported without paying duty. The competition with their native industry will remain, but the revenue that might have been extracted from it will become the property of the smuggler instead of the Government. The case of the South is very similar. For a single year the consumers of cotton may be made to pay tribute in the shape of an export duty to the planters of Georgia and Alabama. We ourselves in India have contrived to levy such a tribute upon the Chinese in the shape of an export duty on opium. But the English are not likely to submit to this kind of treatment with as much patience as the Chinese, and the Southern States must make up their minds to pay for whatever funds they may raise in this manner by the permanent destruction of their principal article of export. All the Abolitionists of the North and West never dealt such a blow at Slavery as she will suffer at the hands of her chosen champions from the imposition of the tax upon the export of cotton. The manufacturers of this country are becoming thoroughly alarmed at the precarious tenure on which they hold their supply of raw material. The imposition of an export duty will put an end to all hesitation in the minds of those at whom it is directly leveled, and everything that British capital, skill, combination, enterprise and influence can effect will be done in order to raise up a competing industry to that of the Southern States. For the first time in this question our interests seem likely to be ranged on the same side as our feelings, and we shall be forced at last into taking a part for which consistency and honor have so long pleaded in vain. It is but a melancholy result of a Constitution which, for the first time, incorporates into itself the principles of Free-trade, to be immediately succeeded by that most deplorable of all economical absurdities, an export duty on articles of produce of which the State has no monopoly, but which can be produced almost anywhere within 33 degrees north and south of the Equator. We can, indeed, fully understand how, in the race for popularity and the determination not to be outbid by a rival, North and South have abandoned themselves to these wretched expedients rather than have recourse to the one only natural and sensible proceeding—the imposition of direct taxes. The institutions of the country offer every facility for such a proceeding. We have always been told with much pride by the Americans that they do not require to have recourse to the half-and-half expedient of an Income-tax; that they have done what we have not dared to do, and applied themselves, not to the revenue yielded by property, but to the property itself out of which that revenue springs. The Roman Census was a mild and tolerant inquisition compared with that which in America scrutinizes a man's furniture, weighs his plate, examines his wife, and examines his wife's jewels, and estimates all that he is worth with as much precision as if the taxgatherer were going to levy an execution on his goods. To what end all this troublesome and costly machinery if, after the State has been at the pains of constructing it, it is not to afford that benefit which nobody denies to our income-tax—the benefit of affording at least a rough-and-ready means of obtaining an increased revenue when it is wanted for some immediate and pressing emergency? A very small percentage on the assessed value of property in the Northern and Southern Confederacies would raise the sum they require, and save them from the humiliating and discreditable experiment of levying a revenue nominally on a foreign nation, but really on their own trade and agriculture. It may be said that all this is true, but that a Democratic form of Government is necessarily intolerant of direct taxation. If so, it is equivalent to the assertion that a Democratic Government can only exist under the most favorable of all possible conditions. So long as they were united it was easy for the States of the North American Union to defray their local expenses by direct taxation, and their Federal expense by import duties, which, though imprudently high, were not fatal to commerce. America must not suppose that she can enjoy, when divided into two hostile republics, all the great and unprecedented advantages which she possessed while she was content to dwell under the banner of one. The high Customs raised with so much facility so long as a single Government was master of the Southern and Eastern seaboard, can now only be levied under the very improbable condition of an agreement between North and South to adopt tariffs so nearly alike as to give no temptation to smugglers. Supposing the breach to continue, the rival Confederacies have really no alternative but to raise their revenues by direct taxation. We wish them to recognize this truth before they have ruined their commerce and agriculture in the futile attempt to evade it.

From the London Globe.

One result of the American revolution may be safely predicted. The two Republics, if not absolutely hostile, will yet dread each other's hostility. Hence must arise a rivalry in armaments by land and sea. One of the earliest acts of the South must be to create a standing army, and the introduction of this expensive necessity on a large scale into the American Continent will probably date from the revolution of 1861. Hitherto the few thousand regulars, maintained by the old Federal Government, have hardly deserved the name of an army. The conviction that it must be increased may slowly dawn upon the minds of a people accustomed to rely on militia and volunteers, but it must ascend above the horizon at last. The South will set the example. The rival tariffs, begetting smuggling, and fertile in subjects of international quarrel, will help to convince the people of the two States that they will not be safe from each other unless they can maintain and display adequate forces. Should secession go further, as it may, should the Border States and the Northwest grow angry with the tariff, and attempt to form separate communities, standing armies will naturally increase with the increase of disunion. The prospects of the late United States, therefore, are not very brilliant, and neither Mr. LINCOLN nor Mr. JEFFERSON DAVIS can look forward to a quiet reign. With them comes a new system. The broad track made by the founders of the Republic is now definitely abandoned. America enters on a new career, and some among us may live to see whether, like Europe, she will be divided into antagonistic nations, with fixed politics, or whether she will, like South America, be split up among a number of snarling communities, with here and there a bright spot shining brilliantly in the surrounding gloom.

The Emancipation of the Serfs—Future Provision.

The Journal de Saint Petersbourg, of the 7th of March, publishes the following rescript addressed by the Emperor ALEXANDER to his brother, His Imperial Highness the Grand Duke CONSTANTINE NICOLAIEVITCH:

IMPERIAL HIGHNESS: I have signed to-day the manifesto which concedes to the peasants of the nobles the rights of free cultivators, and I have sanctioned the general and local regulations as well as those concerning the peasants and domestic serfs freed from the glebe—measures that had been previously examined under your Presidentship, in the superior committee appointed to examine the question of the peasantry, and then submitted to the deliberations of the Council of the Empire.

On this very day, so memorable for Russia, the impulse of my heart and the feeling of duty make me desirous of expressing to you my most earnest and profound gratitude for the exactitude, dispatch, and perfect conformity with my views and expectation with which this important affair of State has been brought to a conclusion. Since the 15th of July, 1857, the day on which you were called upon to form part of the committee created for the projected reform, you have incessantly taken the most active part in all my labors, and when, after the completion, in the month of October, 1860, of the labors of the subordinate committees, I convoked the superior committee for the examination of the projects presented by them, I charged, through the particular confidence I reposed in you, your Highness to preside over that committee. You have fully justified that confidence. After having attentively and deeply studied everything that bore on the important and various questions necessarily raised by the scrutiny of the measures already projected, or of those that might assist in the perfecting of them, in your ardent zeal for the public good you have consecrated every day your efforts, the whole of your time, to the labors of the superior committee. Also, thanks to you particularly, the detailed examination in all its parts of this vast work, the correction and completion of the projects, the solution of all the uncertainties that arose pending this work; lastly, the drawing up of several new regulations have been finished within the period defined by me.

I invite your Highness to express my sincere gratitude to the members of the superior committee charged with the settlement of the question of the peasants, for the proofs they have given of indefatigable and meritorious activity. I shall not forget the manner in which your Imperial Highness and all the members of the superior committee have acted on this important occasion, and with myself all Russia will preserve the remembrance of it beyond a doubt. The future is known to God alone, and the final success of the great work undertaken depends on His Holy will, always merciful. Nevertheless, from this time henceforth, we can say to ourselves, with a tranquil conscience, that we have employed for the completion of this work every means in our power, and we can hope humbly that Providence, who protects our well-beloved country, will bless the accomplishment of our designs, the purity of which is known to it.

In sanctioning the projects relating to the emancipation [illegible] possible to take measures of [illegible] the organization of the entire rural class upon [illegible] uniform bases. With this object I create a Special Committee under my immediate direction, of which I name you a member in according to your [illegible]. I have the conviction that, when acquainted with my views and wishes in this matter, you will actively undertake, with your usual zeal, that nothing can diminish, the labors of this fresh work, so intimately connected with the one already terminated.

I remain, ever your cordially affectionate and grateful,

ALEXANDER.

CHARTER ELECTIONS.—The Charter elections in Hudson County took place yesterday, and in most instances there was a strong contest for places in office. With the exception of two or three fights in Jersey City, the election passed off in a quiet manner. The number of votes cast in Jersey City was as follows: First Ward, 551; Second, 650; Third, 649; Fourth, 600; Fifth, 460; Sixth, 457. This is a falling off of about 1,000 votes from that of last Fall. Up to 11 o'clock last night only about one third of the tickets had been canvassed. It was generally conceded, however, that CORNELIUS VAN VORST, (Rep.,) was reelected Mayor by about 500 majority. C. C. MARTINDALE, Democratic and American candidate for Recorder, was undoubtedly elected, and also ABRAHAM S. JEWEL for School Superintendent. One man was arrested for illegal voting. In Hoboken, JOHN R. JOHNSON, (Dem.,) was reëlected Mayor.

1861. Genin. 1861.
Whether a child shall look "like a fright" or a "love" in its out door costume depends, in no small degree, upon its head covering. The Hat, in its shape, its color, its set, its style of trimming, must be appropriate to the age, features, size and figure of the child, or it will be a blemish rather than an ornament; and entertaining the belief that in my new assortment will be found becoming head coverings for all "mother's pets" and "father's darlings," I hope to see a large representation of these "little people," under the maternal escort.

NURSERY.
The following is an extract from a letter written by Rev. C. Z Weiser, to the "German Reformed Messenger," Chambersburgh, Penn.
BENEFACTRESS.
There is a woman in the public eye, whose name had all along been associated, in our mind, with the 'Yankee,' 'Quack,' and 'Humbug.' But it is so no longer, and we desire to wrest her name from all such suspicious associations in all other minds. Whatever notions we may have of womanly delicacy and propriety, we will all admit that woman alone is the Nurse—the GOOD Nurse—the BEST Nurse. Whether we shall have female physicians or not is a question which must be decided by time and principle, and not as a matter of taste. Pride, prejudice, caprice and custom may as well behave themselves, for if there is really a want, there will also be a supply—if there be a 'calling,' there will be a 'coming.' Nature and Human Society are always self-supplying, and though Art and Fashion may hinder, they cannot prevent.
Mrs. Winslow does not want to treat you, gentlemen! nor does she prescribe a regimen for your wives; but modestly appears as a messenger of health and happiness to your INFANTS in the cradle. Is there anything improper in that? A nurse of "ten years'" experience can boldly say what is or is not good for a babe—and ought to be listened to. God speed her on her humble but happy mission. She is the most successful physician and most effectual benefactress our little one ever enjoyed—her doting parents not excepted. Just open the door for her, and Mrs. Winslow will prove the American Florence Nightingale of the nursery. Of this we are so sure, that we will teach our "Susy" to say, "A BLESSING ON MRS. WINSLOW," for helping her to survive and escape the griping, collicking and teething siege. We confirm every word set forth in the Prospectus. It performs precisely what it professes to perform—every part of it, nothing less. Away with your "Cordial," "Paregoric," "Drops," "Laudanum," and every other narcotic, by which the babe is drugged into stupidity, and rendered dull and idiotic for life!
We have never seen Mrs. WINSLOW—know her only through the preparation of her 'SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING.' If we had the power, we would make her, as she is, a physical saviour to the Infant race."
HIGHLY IMPORTANT TO MOTHERS.—MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP is the only thing that you can rely upon to give rest to yourself, and relief and health to your infant.
MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP has been the means of restoring the drooping spirits in many mothers.
This is the season of the year to use MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.
To every mother who has children suffering from any of the complaints incident to the period of teething, we say do not let your own prejudices, or the prejudices of others, stand in the way of the relief that will be sure—yes, absolutely sure—to follow the use of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP.
Druggists everywhere now keep MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP for children teething. No medicine in the United States sells like it. It is a standard medicine, and its fame world-wide. Physicians order and use it wherever its magical effects have been witnessed.
During the thirty years of unprecedented and increasing popularity of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, innumerable "CORDIALS" and other nostrums, prepared by pretended M. D.'s, have sprung up, and lived but a mushroom existence, while the SOOTHING SYRUP has been constantly increasing in popularity, and become a household word, and thousands of mothers thank Mrs. Winslow for the health of their children by the use of her invaluable article.
When the present race of "Cordials" have followed in the footsteps of their "illustrious predecessors," MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP will continue to be a popular favorite and a blessing to every mother.
None genuine unless the fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New-York, is on the outside wrapper.
Sold by Druggists throughout the world.

HOMES FOR THE INDUSTRIOUS IN THE GARDEN STATE OF THE WEST.
THE ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY
HAVE FOR SALE
1,200,000 ACRES
OF
RICH FARMING LANDS, IN
TRACTS OF FORTY ACRES AND UPWARDS, ON LONG CREDITS AND AT LOW PRICES.
MECHANICS, FARMERS AND WORKING MEN.
The attention of the enterprising and industrious portion of the community is directed to the following statements and liberal inducements offered them by the ILLINOIS CENTRAL RAILROAD COMPANY,
Which, as they will perceive, will enable them, by proper energy, perseverance and industry, to provide comfortable and permanent homes for themselves and families, with, comparatively speaking, very little capital:
LANDS OF ILLINOIS.
No State in the Valley of the Mississippi offers so great an inducement to the settler as the State of Illinois. There is no portion of the world where all the conditions of climate and soil so admirably combine to produce those two great staples, corn and wheat, as the prairies of Illinois.
RICH ROLLING PRAIRIE LANDS.
The deep rich loam of the prairies is cultivated with such wonderful facility that the farmers of the Eastern and Middle States are moving to Illinois in great numbers. The area of Illinois is about equal to that of England, and the soil is so rich that it will support twenty millions of people.
EASTERN AND SOUTHERN MARKETS.
These lands are contiguous to a railroad 700 miles in length, which connects with other roads and navigable lakes and rivers, thus affording an unbroken communication with the Eastern and Southern markets.
APPLICATION OF CAPITAL.
Thus far capital and labor have been applied to developing the soil; the great resources of the State in COAL and iron are almost untouched; the invariable rule that the mechanic arts flourish best where food and fuel are cheapest, will follow at an early day in Illinois, and in the course of the next ten years, the natural laws and necessities of the case warrant the belief that at least FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND PEOPLE will be engaged in the State of Illinois in the various manufacturing employments.
RAILROAD SYSTEM OF ILLINOIS.
Over $100,000,000 of private capital have been expended on the railroad system of Illinois. Inasmuch as part of the income from several of these works, with a valuable public fund in lands, go to diminish the State expenses, the taxes are light, and must, consequently, every day decrease.
THE STATE DEBT.
The State Debt is only $10,106,398 14, and, within the last three years, has been reduced $2,959,746 80 and we may reasonably expect that in ten years it will become extinct.
PRESENT POPULATION.
The State is rapidly filling up with population; 868,025 persons having been added since 1850, making the present population 1,719,496—a ratio of 102 per cent. in ten years.
AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS.
The agricultural products of Illinois are greater than those of any other State. The products sent out during the past year exceeded 1,500,000 tons. The wheat crop of 1860 approaches 35,000,000 bushels, while the corn crop yields not less than 140,000,000 bushels.
FERTILITY OF SOIL.
Nowhere can the industrious farmer secure such immediate results for his labor as upon these prairie soils, they being composed of a deep, rich loam, the fertility of which is unsurpassed by any on the globe.
TO ACTUAL CULTIVATORS.
Since 1854 the Company have sold 1,300,000 acres. They sell only to actual cultivators, and every contract contains an agreement to cultivate. The road has been constructed through these lands at an expense of $30,000,000. In 1850 the population of forty-nine counties through which it passes was only 335,598, since which, 479,293 have been added, making the whole population 814,891—a gain of 143 per cent.
EVIDENCES OF PROSPERITY.
As an evidence of the thrift of the people, it may be stated that 600,000 tons of freight, including 8,600,000 bushels of grain, and 250,000 barrels of flour, were forwarded over the line last year.
EDUCATION.
Mechanics and Working Men will find the Free School system encouraged by the State, and endowed with a large revenue for the support of schools. Their children can live in sight of the Church and School-house, and grow up with the prosperity of the leading State in the great Western Empire.
PRICES AND TERMS OF PAYMENT.
The price of these lands vary from $6 to $25 per acre, according to location, quality, &c. First-class farming lands sell for about $10 or $12 per acre; and the relative expense of subduing prairie land as compared with wood land is in the ratio of 1 to 10 in favor of the former. The terms of sale for the bulk of these lands will be at six per cent. per annum, and six interest notes at six per cent., payable respectively in one, two, three, four, five and six years from date of sale; and four notes for principal, payable in four, five, six and seven years from date of sale; the contract stipulating that one-tenth of the tract purchased shall be fenced and cultivated each and every year, for five years from the date of sale, so that at the end of five years one-half shall be fenced and under cultivation.
ONE YEAR'S INTEREST IN ADVANCE
TWENTY PER CENT. WILL BE DEDUCTED from the valuation for cash, except the same should be at six dollars per acre, when the cash price will be five dollars.
Pamphlets, descriptive of the lands, soil, climate, productions, prices and terms of payment, can be had on application to Protected by Royal Letters Patent of Great Britain, Ecole de Pharmacie, Pharmacien de Paris and Imperial College of Medicine, Vienna.

Summary of the virtues of each preparation, TRIESEMAR Nos. 1, 2, and 3:

TRIESEMAR NO. 1
effectually removes general and local debility, premature decay, spermatorrhœa, and all the distressing consequences of excess; all physical impediments vanish like magic before its influence, thus rendering it invaluable to those about being married; even in the decline of life its invigorating powers are astonishing.

TRIESEMAR NO. 2
has superior properties in those cases where Copavia or Cubebs is usually administered.

entirely eradicates all impurities from the system; is most excellent in secondary symptoms, thus obviating the necessity of mercury, or any other deleterious ingredients.

Triesemar Nos. 1, 2 and 3, being in the form of an agreeable lozenge, is portable, and may be taken with the utmost facility while traveling by sea or land. Done up in tin cases, and divided into separate doses, as administered by Velpeau, Lallemand, Row, Ricord, &c. Single cases of each number, $3; four cases in one, $9; or in $27 cases, thereby saving $9.

B.—Dr. C. is a qualified Physician and Surgeon, and a member of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of New-York. Office hours from 8 A. M. to 9 P. M.

His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cures without dieting or restriction in the habits of the patient; cures without the disgusting or sickening effects of all other remedies; cures, in new cases, in less than six hours. NATIONAL AFFAIRS.

"[illegible] going to do." As soon as elected he was going to [illegible] the country. But he did nothing. Then they [illegible], "Wait till the 4th of March—then he'll get you!" [illegible] 4th came and went, and Mr. LINCOLN did nothing. Then they cried, "Wait till he appoints his Cabinet, [illegible] you are doomed!" And they waited [illegible] and longer, and Mr. LINCOLN does nothing. As a last, desperate trick to keep up [illegible] and "fire the Southern heart," these [illegible] who knew as well [illegible] what Mr. LINCOLN was going to do, came and ask this Convention to send up a Commission to Washington, and ask Mr. LINCOLN "What he is going to do?" Mr. RIVES could see the reason of this distress of the Secessionists. On the 4th of April, this Convention voted down a Secession Ordinance by a vote of two to one! When they did so they sent a harpoon into the vitals of the whale. No wonder the blood spouted, and the waves boiled as it plunged below. Let us give it no relief now, said Mr. R., and soon we will see the white of the monster's belly seeking the surface. Mr. R. said he was not alarmed by Mr. LINCOLN. His constituents were not of the timid sort. Mr. LINCOLN knew the policy of Virginia. It had been emphatically proclaimed by the resolutions now passed by this Convention. Let us leave him to his course, and, like calm, brave men, we can pursue ours.

Mr. TREDWAY, of Pittsylvania, replied. He was not of those that had apprehended war. But lately he was led to fear a conflict. If it came Virginia would take sides with the South and go out of the Union. He thought the Commissioners of Virginia would be received by Mr. LINCOLN and responded to. Mr. LINCOLN claimed that he could not receive the Southern Commissioners without acknowledging the Southern Confederacy. Mr. LINCOLN would certainly reply to respectful inquiries made by the Convention, or give his reasons for not doing so.

Mr. BRANCH, of Dinwiddie, was doubtful of the policy of making requests of the President. Suppose we did so, and a Northern Legislature or Convention should ask him not to reply. They would have the right if we have ours. There would be a conflict of States. He was opposed to establishing unsafe precedents. He would prefer to have this whole matter referred to a sub-committee of five, to report a mode of expressing our opinion and wishes to the President, not liable to objection.

Mr. L. E. HARVIE denied (in reply to Mr. RIVES) that the Secessionists were prompting the present movement. He did not care what came of it. He knew Virginia sooner or later would have to secede.

Mr. HOLLIDAY, of Norfolk, believed the President meant peace, and had been disposed to favor the resolution to send Commissioners to Washington, in order to draw out that policy. But the debate had led him to doubt. Commissioners, if indisposed to peace, might so conduct the negotiations with the President as to compel an unfavorable result. Who were to be the Commissioners? How appointed? He could not commit the issue of peace or war to any one, two or three men.

Further speeches were made, but I give the best points presented. The Convention adjourned at 3 o'clock, to meet again at 5—about the present hour, as I close this letter.

MONTICELLO.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS.

RICHMOND, Va., Tuesday, April 9.

The Convention went into Committee of the Whole. The tenth resolution came up.

Mr. CONRAD moved to strike out to the word "authorities," and insert "believing the Federal authorities have no power to deal with the subject in any way." Rejected, 114 to 12.

Mr. WISE offered the following substitute for the resolution: "The people of Virginia hereby declare their consent to the recognition of the separate independence of the seceded States; that they shall be treated as independent powers, and that proper laws shall be passed to effect their separation."

The substitute was adopted, 128 against 20.

The 11th resolution came up.

Mr. WICKHAM offered an amendment, declaring confidence in the justice of the people of the other States, appealing to them for a satisfactory adjustment by the adoption of the amendments to the Constitution hereto appended, and declaring the definite refusal or neglect of the Non Slaveholding States to acceed to such amendments, should and would result in a total and final disruption of the Union.

Mr. GOODE submitted an amendment declaring further, in such event, that Virginia will feel compelled to resume her powers and throw herself upon her reserved rights. Rejected—54 against 70.

Mr. WICKHAM's amendment was lost—57 against 68.

Mr. FARR moved to strike out the last sentence of the eleventh resolution, declaring that the State will resume her powers in the event of a failure to receive satisfactory responses. Rejected—51 to 70.

The Convention then took a recess, after which the eleventh resolution was adopted, with a slight amendment.

The twelfth resolution came up.

Various amendments were proposed, pending which, adjourned.

Private advices, which state that a steamer was seen at the mouth of Charleston harbor, to-day, and that Fort Sumpter was to be reinforced at all hazards, produce a great sensation in and outside the Convention.

The Kansas Senatorial Election.

ATCHINSON, Tuesday, April 9.

The reports that there are doubts in reference to the legality of the election of Messrs. LANE and POMEROY to the United States Senate are entirely without foundation, as certificates were made out and signed by the Governor as soon as practicable.

The Senators elected are here, and leave for Washington immediately.

Municipal Election in Trenton.

TRENTON, Tuesday, April 9.

At the election held in this city, to-day, the following gentlemen were elected: WM. R. MCKEAN, Republican, as Mayor; Mr. STARIN, Democrat, Marshal, and a majority of Democrats on the Ward and City tickets. There was very little excitement occasioned.

Charter Election in Albany.

ALBANY, Tuesday, April 9.

At the Charter election held to day, the Democrats carried the city by over 1,600 majority, seven out of the ten Aldermen, and Supervisors. Among the Aldermen elected is ERASTUS CORNING, Jr., who carried a Ward usually Republican by over 100 majority. WM. HASTINGS, brother of the editor of the Knickerbocker, is one of the Republican Aldermen.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

THE VALUE OF AN ALDERMAN'S NOSE.—In May, of last year, an Aldermanic fracas occurred in the vestibule of the City Hall, between Ex-Alderman WILSON, of the First Ward, and Alderman RUSSELL, of the Seventh—the latter coming off with a scratched face and a nose wrung. For this indignity an action was brought against the offender in the Supreme Court, which he allowed to go by default. The case came up on Monday night before the regular panel of the Sheriff's Jury, whose duty it is to assess damages on all cases which have gone by default—and after a patient hearing of the evidence pro and con, and which was published in the TIMES at the time of the occurrence, the jury awarded Alderman RUSSELL the sum of $1,000, as compensation for the indignity perpetrated, and the damage done to his nasal protruberance. As there is no appeal from the verdict of a Sheriff's jury, Mr. WILSON will have to pay up the penalty. Many years since, but within the memory of those who would not care to be classed among the "oldest inhabitants" of the City, Dr. HART, then musical and theatrical critic of the Courier and Enquirer, chanced to offend Mr. WOOD, the singer, then performing with his wife at the Old Park Theatre. Coming together by accident in the lobby of the theatre, Mr. WOOD, after some words of crimination and recrimination, spat in Mr. HART's face, for which he was afterwards mulcted in the sum of $3,000, in a civil action, and the occurrence was the occasion of the celebrated "Wood riot," which was so disastrous to the Park Theatre. The inference to be drawn from the two verdicts is, that while a reporter's face is worth $3,000 and a riot, an Alderman's nose is only worth $1,000 without the addition of the riot.

SUICIDE OF STEPHEN VAN RENSSELAER.—On Monday night, Mr. STEPHEN VAN RENSSELAER, a member of the well-known family of the same name, living at Albany, called at the drinking saloon kept by ELIZABETH HOYT, at No. 478 Broadway, and poisoned himself by taking laudanum. He went to the place in company with a Mr. HULSE, and inviting several persons who were present to drink with him, he took a vial from his pocket and mixed the opiate with his liquor; then remarking, "This is my last drink," he swallowed the mixture before an attempt could be made to restrain him. Dr. QUACKENBOS and several other physicians were summoned as quickly as possible, but the antidotes they administered failed to be of use, and he expired about four hours after taking the draught. Coroner JACKMAN was notified to hold an inquest in the case, and he gave a permit for the removal of the body to the late residence of deceased in Fourth-avenue, near Twenty-second-street. Mr. VAN RENSSELAER was about 35 years of age, and for some years past led a most profligate and dissolute life. An inquest will be held upon the body to-day.

THE GREAT BANK ROBBERY.

HERRING'S SAFE

FOILS THE BURGLARS

AND PRESERVES

$500,000.

NEW-YORK, March 27, 1861.

Messrs. Herring & Co., No. 251 Broadway:

GENTLEMEN; You have already been well informed, through the columns of the daily papers, of the desperate attempt made upon our Money Vault, and the Fire and Burglar proof Safe made by you for our Bank a few years ago. Although our vault was very strongly built, and provided with heavy Doors and the best of Locks the attempt upon the Vault was successful.

The rogues succeeded in undermining the Vault by digging a tunnel some seventy feet long under the adjoining building, and terminating at the base of the Vault itself. Here they commenced their operations upon a large scale; and, after removing the front part of the heavy stone foundation, which was strongly laid in cement, they reached the large flag-stone which formed the floor of the Vault. This stone was broken by means of a Jack-screw of great power, and the interior of the Vault thus reached.

Your Safe now became the great point of attack, and bravely did it resist every effort, holding secure its entire trust (property amounting to $500,000) against all the tools and ingenuity of the burglars.

The first great aim seemed to be to drill into the safe, but although some thirty holes were made in the outer casing, the hardened iron forming the centre lining turned the point of every tool. Disappointed here, they now attempted to dissect the Safe, and endeavored to force the strong framework apart. After removing one bar, and partially cutting off another, they gave this up, and all further operations proved unavailing. Our confidence in your safe has been reassured, and we would further add, for the benefit of the public and to your credit, that had they even succeeded in getting through the outer casing or shell of the Safe, which they did not do, that three more thicknesses of metal still remained, and each of these, in our opinion, would have given them more trouble than the single one by which they were so completely foiled.

When the great resources of these burglars are considered, the opportunity to work from Saturday night to Monday morning, the great number of the best kind of tools in their possession, and the skill and ingenuity displayed, we have reason to feel proud of your Safe.

We wish you to send the large safe purchased by us at your store, to our new Banking House, in Greenwich-street, and as as soon as we get moved you shall have the old one as a trophy.

S. VAN DUZER,
President N. Y. Exchange Bank.

THE HAT THAT DOUGLAS HELD.—Senator DOUGLAS is an admirer of beauty, and when he saw a superb Knox Hat in Mr. LINCOLN's hand, and in danger of contact with the floor, he gracefully said, "Permit me, Sir," and held it during the Inaugural Address. He afterwards confessed to his wife that he did so because he could not bear to see that beautiful Knox Hat spoiled. KNOX has plenty more of the same sort at the corner of Broadway and Fulton-street.

The foregoing returns show another heavy falling off in the Import entries of the season, as compared with last year. The difference altogther for nine months of the fiscal year is about $20,000 in Foreign Merchandise entered at New-York, while about the same difference is shown, on the other hand, in the receipts of Foreign Bullion—the latter being the heaviest known to our trade since the year 1847. The Export clearances of Domestic Produce are again over ten millions for the month, being the sixth consecutive month in which the movement has reached this large figure. The effect being, in connection with the reduced Imports, to completely reverse the course of the Bullion Exchanges, since the 1st July last, as compared with the previous experience of the past six or eight years.

The Exchange on England had another decided fall to-day. Some of the Banking-houses accepting 107½ per cent., while first class merchant bills, of which there was a good offering, were done at 107@107¼ per cent. The Exports of Produce this week direct from this port, together with the movement of Cotton from the Southern ports, have created a supply of Bills considerably in advance of the demand from the Import trade. There is a further arrival of English Gold by the Persia to-day of $282,000. This favorite steamer, by the way, has made one of the quickest runs of the season from Liverpool and Queenstown. Her time is under nine days from the last-named port. Her market news is no later than by the previous arrival, business being suspended in England by the Easter Holidays. The following is a comparative statement of the exports (exclusive of specie) from New-York to Foreign Ports, for the week and since Jan. 1:

	1859.	1860.	1861.
For the week	$1,553,089	$1,890,692	$3,005,889
Previously reported	14,950,966	20,546,594	33,668,616
Since Jan. 1	$16,504 055	$22,437,286	$35,674,505

The applications from this City for the United States Convertible Treasury Bills, to be awarded by the Secretary of the Treasury early to-morrow morning, should go forward by this afternoon's mail, the preliminary deposit of 1 ₽ cent. on the sum applied for being first left with the New-York Sub-Treasurer. The new Bills will be of the denomination of $50 to $1,000, at the pleasure of the taker, to run two years from date, and convertible, at the option of the holder, into the 6 ₽ cent. Funded Stock of 1881.

The Stock Exchange was again on something like a war footing to-day, and at the early Board the competition was eager to accept the first bids made for almost anything on the official list, from United States Stock down to the lowest point on the Railway Shares. The average decline from yesterday's sales was nearly 2 ₽ cent., making 3½@4 ₽ cent. for two days. But on these low [illegible] a partial recovery [illegible] at the Second Board, and the disposition to buy at the reduced figures of the morning was particularly marked on New-York Central and the Western Railways, nearly all which closed steady. The depression in the State Securities was 2 ₽ cent. from yesterday's sales on Virginias, 1½@2 on Tennessees, and 2½ on Missouris. The latter sold largely at 60 ₽ cent., closing 60½ ₽ cent. The Federal Stock of 1861 sold at 91 for the coupons, and 93½ for the registered Stock. Late in the afternoon, in the absence of exciting news from Charleston, which seemed to be generally anticipated earlier in the day, the market left off steady, at about the following figures:

Central	74¾	Michigan Guaranteed	33¼
Erie	26	Galena	69¾
Pacific	80	Toledo	31
Panama	110	Rock Island	51
Hudson	40	Missouris	60¾
Harlem Preferred	36¾	Tennessees	71¾
Michigan Central	52	Virginias	71
Illinois Central	73¼	U. States 1881, reg.	93¾

HAVE JUST PUBLISHED
MACAULAY'S
HISTORY OF ENGLAND,
Volume Five.
Price 40 cents, cloth; 60 cents, Sheep.

The Publishers claim for this edition a superiority over every other, inasmuch as it contains, in addition to ALL THE MATTER COMPRISED IN THE ENGLISH EDITION,

A BIOGRAPHICAL AND CRITICAL SKETCH OF MACAULAY'S LIFE, CHARACTER AND WRITINGS, BY S. AUSTIN ALLIBONE.
The well-known compiler of the "Dictionary of Authors."

In 1857, Mr. Allibone prepared for the second volume of his Dictionary of Authors (not yet published) a very full sketch of Lord Macaulay's literary career, illustrated by copious critical commendations, favorable and unfavorable, on his writings. As the proof-sheets of this sketch were, (not by the agency of the author,) for near a year before his death, in his lordship's possession, and as he corresponded with Mr. Allibone on the subject, the accuracy of the statements therein contained may be considered as fully indorsed.

To this original sketch the author has, within the last few days, prepared expressly for our edition of the fifth volume of the History of England, a comprehensive Supplement, containing a detailed account of the profound impression produced by Lord Macaulay's sudden and lamented decease, and of the solemn and impressive funeral services at Westminster Abbey. The famous articles of the London Times, the London Athenæum, the Manchester Guardian and the Edinburgh Review, with the papers in the Revue Contemporaine, Illustrated News, &c., and the remarks of M. Guizot, Edward Everett, Robt. C. Winthrop, and others, are here reproduced, whilst the Supplement concludes with a Biographical Catalogue Raisonné of Macaulayana to the latest date.

Besides the above, the Boston edition contains A Double-Page fac-simile from one of Macaulay's Latest Manuscripts; and also the
ADDITIONAL NOTES TO THE FIRST FOUR VOLUMES WHICH HAVE BEEN INCORPORATED FROM THE LAST LONDON EDITIONS.

Purchasers of the volumes published by Phillips, Sampson & Co., are informed that this edition is in every respect uniform with that, and is prepared expressly to complete that edition.
